INVESTIGATION HAS BEEN TRANSFERRED

Sub-Committee from Congress Goes to Savannah

MORE WITNESSES TO BE HEARD

Inquiry Into Alleged Misconduct of Judge is Completed in Macon and Moves to Savannah Where Many Others Testify.

Macon, Ga., Jan. 24.—Investigation of charges of official misconduct on the part of Federal Judge Emory Speer, of the Southern District of Georgia, today was transferred to Savannah, where they will be resumed Monday morning. Many important witnesses yet remain to be heard. Members of the sub-committee of the House Judiciary, who are conducting the investigation today said that it probably would require another week to complete their work.

Today's session was marked by another dramatic outburst of indignation from Judge Speer who yesterday interrupted the testimony of United States District Attorney Alexander Akerman. This morning, when R. Colton Lewis, special examiner for the Department of Justice, who made the report upon which the charges against Judge Speer largely are based, charged that the jurist had shown favoritism to A. H. Heyward, his son-in-law, in cases involving fees, Judge Speer sprang to his feet and exclaimed: "I have been defamed as no other judge ever was. I ask this committee to see to it that all the facts are brought out so that the public may understand."

At the afternoon session George F. White, marshal in Judge Speer's court for 25 years, denied that the judge ever had instructed him to "keep a jury walking" so that a mistrial might be ordered. Testimony to this effect had previously been presented to the committee by other witnesses.

Mr. Lewis, Department of Justice examiner, today read a list of bankruptcy cases in which fees had been paid to A. H. Heyward or to the firm of Talley & Heyward. The list contained more than 40 cases. In all of them fees had been either paid to Heyward or Talley individually or to the firm of Talley & Heyward.

Several other witnesses appeared to testify to minor points which the committee desired cleared up. The committee will leave here Sunday night for Savannah.

INDICTMENTS DISMISSED.

Against Three Officers of Western Fuel Company.

San Francisco, Jan. 24.—Indictments against S. J. Smith, president, Robert Bruce, directors, and Joseph L. Schmidt, treasurer of the Western Fuel Company, were dismissed here today. The three were charged with conspiracy to defraud the government by getting tariff rebates on coal.

Of the eight original defendants, four others, David S. Maurice, ruled in the United States District court must continue to stand trial. They are James R. Smith, general manager; F. C. Jones, vice president, and Edward J. Smith and E. H. Mayer, welders, employed by the company. The eighth man, President John L. Howard, died shortly after the indictment against him was dismissed yesterday on motion of the government.

Judge Doelling ruled that the connection of the prosecution had set up between the secretary and directors and the conspiracy to defraud the government by getting tariff rebates on coal was too slight to justify the cases against them going to the jury.

New York, January 24.—The statement of the actual condition of clearing house banks and trust companies for the week shows that they held $23,065,750 in excess of legal requirements. This is a decrease of $3,045,900 from last week.

EVERY HARMONY OF PURPOSE

Exists Between Japan and American Governments Says Baron Makino in a Statement.

Washington, Jan. 24.—Baron Makino, the Japanese foreign minister, has made a supplementary statement to the Japanese parliament to show that according to the Japanese understanding, there is perfect harmony of purpose between the United States and Japan in negotiations to settle the California land question.

According to a transcript of his remarks made public by the Japanese embassy here today, the minister said: "It is the purpose of the imperial government to settle the question in as advantageous a manner as possible and I believe the American government is taking measures of investigation looking to a settlement by the most just methods."

The statement was made by Baron Makino in answer to a formal interpellation apparently framed to dissipate impressions possible created by previous intimations that the Japanese government is taking measures of investigation looking to a settlement by the most just methods.

Japan is believed to desire a new treaty specifically recognizing the right of Japanese in the United States to hold and lease real property on equal terms with other foreigners. Such a treaty will invalidate the California law, and similar State legislation, but whether the Senate would ratify a convention of this character even if presented, forms another angle to the problem.

DANIELS WANTS A GREATER NAVY

Secretary Addresses North Carolina Society

QUOTES WORDS OF J. C. DOBBIN

Speech Came As a Reply to Toast "North Carolina in the Cabinet" Navy Inadequate to Protect the Merchant Marine.

Washington, January 24.—Secretary Daniels advocated a greater navy to-night in responding to the toast "North Carolina in the Cabinet" at a dinner of the North Carolina Society of Washington. The secretary's views were expressed by quoting an utterance of James C. Dobbin, a North Carolinian, who was President Pierce's secretary of the navy and who declared the navy of his day was too diminutive to contend with those of other nations, insufficient to protect American commerce and unquestionably too feeble to command the waters of the American coast.

"This splendid spirit of patriotism and of progress, avoiding an extreme position and yet looking to the steady upbuilding of our strength upon the sea, may well be an inspiration to all Americans today as it was more than half a century ago," said Secretary Daniels.

The quotation which Secretary Daniels read and which his hearers took to be a statement of Mr. Daniels' own views, follows in part:

"I deem it my duty candidly to express the opinion that our navy is not only too diminutive to be expected to command the waters of our own coast, but is insufficient to give adequate protection to our commerce, but is unquestionably too feeble to command the waters of our own coast. Without naval strength a six months' war with any nation with a powerful marine would result in the capture of rich and valuable cargoes, and the loss of our coast and our commerce."

"While I by no means suggest the policy of the necessity of no longer a naval force as many powerful nations foster, yet it is desirable and attainable, too that the American citizens should gather confidence, courage and energy from the reflection that he belongs to a government recognized by all as able to avenge his wrongs and vindicate his rights."

Having referred to Admiral George Dewey as the "greatest of living sea fighters," Secretary Daniels added: "It is one of the most delightful incidents of my administration to appoint to the Naval Academy as president of the general board."

NORTH CAROLINA SOCIETY HONORS JOSEPHUS DANIELS

At Most Enjoyable and Interesting Dinner in Washington.

(Special Star Telegram.) Washington, D. C., January 24.—The most enjoyable and most interesting dinner of the North Carolina Society of Washington, was held at Rauscher's tonight in honor of Hon. Josephus Daniels, Secretary of the Navy. Besides Mr. Daniels, C. Alton Smith, a former North Carolinian, and President W. L. Potter, of Wake Forest College, were among the principal speakers. Over five hundred North Carolinians attended the dinner.

Among those in the receiving line were Mrs. R. N. Page, Mrs. Josephus Daniels, Mrs. J. A. Holmes, Mrs. (Continued on Page Two.)

Houghton, Mich., Jan. 24.—A "no true bill" was reported today by the special grand jury which has been investigating the alleged kidnapping and forcible deportation of Charles H. Moyer and James Tanner, officials of the Western Federation of Miners, on the night of December 26th.

Seventeen citizens were named in the presentment which covered only the alleged assault on Moyer in Hancock. It developed that Special Prosecutor Nichols did not seek an indictment for the actual deportation of Moyer and Charles H. Tanner. Four other "no true bills" in case growing out of strike disorders were presented. One true bill was returned, but as the charge is a felony, it was not made public.

Mr. Nichols said afterwards he had explained to the jury that in his opinion the statute on kidnapping did not apply to the deportation of Moyer and Tanner because the Union men were not forcibly sent out of the State but were left to take their own course this side of the State line and there could be no possible claim that there was any intent to confine them against their will within the State or to hold them in service outside the State.

Twenty-seven witnesses were examined in the Moyer case and the jury deliberated over it for two days. The impossibility of getting witnesses to identify the men in the crowd (Continued on Page Eight.)

WIFE'S DEAD BODY UNDER BRUSH HEAP.

Wake County Man Had Gruesome Find Last Night.

Raleigh, N. C., Jan. 24.—His wife's dead body under a brush heap was the gruesome find of William Lynch, a farmer about 11 o'clock tonight. He lives two miles from Wendell, 15 miles from Raleigh, and returning home late, joined searchers looking for his wife who had been missed from the house.

Mrs. Lynch's face was mangled, her body bruised from being dragged over the ground. There had been thefts of potatoes from the barn lately and it is supposed she heard a noise, went into the yard and was killed by one who escaped after dragging her body some distance and covering it with brush.

Among those in the receiving line were Mrs. R. N. Page, Mrs. Josephus Daniels, Mrs. J. A. Holmes, Mrs. (Continued on Page Two.)

For Application of Rates Prescribed in Justice Act—Extension at Commission's Request.

(Special Star Telegram.) Raleigh, N. C., January 24.—A further extension to March 20th was ordered today by Governor Craig for the application of the impending intra-State freight rates prescribed in the Justice act, being heard as to confiscatory and unreasonable effect on the railroad companies before the special commission.

This extension is at the request of the special commission. The Governor will order further extensions as the special commission may require to finally pass on the rates and promulgate rates for enforcement.

INDICTED FOR BRIBERY.

Attempted to Buy Supreme Court Nomination in New York.

New York, January 24.—William Willett, Jr., formerly Democratic member of Congress, was convicted late tonight of bribery, in attempting to purchase a Supreme Court nomination in Queens county, in July, 1911. The jury had the case under consideration but forty minutes.

Willett was remanded to jail for sentence Friday.

Indicted with Willett are Joseph Cassidy, former Democratic leader of Queens county, and once an important figure in local politics, and Louis T. Walter, Jr., a friend of the two men. They will be tried later.

ALASKA RAILWAY BILL HAS PASSED

Senate Directs President to Build Coal Road

FORTY MILLION DOLLARS

To be Used in the Construction of Government-owned Track—Panama Canal Machinery for the Frozen North.

Washington, January 24.—By a vote of 46 to 16, the Senate today passed the Alaska Railway bill, directing the President to purchase or construct 1,000 miles of railroad in Alaska at a cost not to exceed $40,000,000.

Fifteen Republicans and Senator Poindexter voted for the bill. Senators Bacon, Hoke Smith and Williams voted against it.

The bill places upon the President responsibility for the selection of the route from tidewater to the interior of Alaska, and the construction, equipment and operation or leasing of such lines as he may construct or buy to constitute this route. The broadest powers are conferred upon the President in carrying out his duties.

The bill provides for a redemption fund which shall be paid 75 per cent. of all moneys derived from the sale of public lands in Alaska, or of the coal or mineral contents. Machinery utilized in the construction of the Panama canal is made available for the construction work.

Unavailing Efforts. Unavailing efforts were made to reduce $40,000,000 appropriation for the work. Senator Hoke Smith sought to have the appropriation reduced to $25,000,000, and Senator Smoot to $35,000,000. Other amendments defeated were those for government steamship lines to Alaska, for the sales of Alaska coal to Pacific coast points and for limiting the cost to one main line.

The bill was amended to require the Senate's approval of the appointment of civil engineers receiving more than $2,500 a year, to forbid any payment for the good will of existing railways, giving injured employees the right to sue the government and limiting the government's defense to those provided for in the Federal Employers' liability law of 1908. A similar bill is pending in the House.

Big Celebrations. As soon as the passage today by the Senate of the Alaska Railway bill was received in Seattle, bombs were thrown into the street and band and wagons bearing banners paraded through the streets. The banners announced that the Senate had passed the bill and that a great celebration was being prepared to take place after President Wilson had signed the measure.

Alaska also is preparing a celebration.

great market place will earn the admiration and respect of the whole people.

Means Something Vital.
"We are determined to show our critics by our actions that the Stock Exchange means something vital and vitalizing in America; that it is an important adjunct of Wall Street—a broad highway from ocean to ocean, doing its utmost to meet the needs of a happy and prosperous land."

Mr. Van Antwerp attacked the money trust committee's interpretation of figures showing loans of New York banks on Stock Exchange collateral and declared that actually the amounts of New York money loaned to the country at large far exceeded loans on stock.

The harm done by the random and misleading implications is incalculable, but imaginative business men who accept such statements as authoritative should be told plainly the facts," said he.

The New York Stock Exchange today is conducted on a higher plane of ethical business standards than any business in America or any profession in America, bar none. There are men in New York and I have no doubt, in Washington also, who whenever a new proposition comes out of the South or West, condemn it as irrational and visionary without giving thought to the emergency which gave it birth.

"Can we of New York and the East obstinately refuse to adapt our course to new and ever-changing country-wide conditions? Before we appeal to our critics in the West and South for sanity and clear thinking in our own affairs, we must emancipate ourselves from whatever is local, provincial and selfish. We must put away the isolated detached and narrow view when occasion demands and steer our ship toward the broad horizon of America."

to come to terms with Washington.

R. C. Dennis, manager of the Joliet hacienda, near Tierra Blanca, owned by Americans, has complained to American Consul Canada that the rebel leader Poinciano Vasquez has demanded a tribute of $100 weekly under penalty of destroying the property. The rebel chief also informed Dennis that the Federal government was powerless to protect him. Consul Canada directed Dennis to notify Vasquez that the United States demanded protection. Vasquez is reported to be in command of a strong column of revolutionaries.

No Signs of Yielding.
Mexico City, Jan. 24.—The Huerta regime betrays no signs of yielding, although cognizant of the increased strength of its enemies, intriguing within the capital and those in the field.

Personal and political friends of the provisional President, seconded by highest officials of the Catholic church in Mexico, have been endeavoring discreetly to bring about his elimination. Tonight they seemingly are convinced that they have failed.

Gen. Huerta today looked optimistically of the outlook, displayed pride in the size of his army, which he estimated at considerably more than 100,000 men, and appeared to believe that he will dominate the situation within three months. It is conceded here that ex-Minister Flores Magón has failed in his mission to John Lind at Vera Cruz and that the United States will listen to no proposition short of the unconditional elimination of Huerta.

Extraordinary taxes have been levied in the capital as well as outside points and there are rumors that other decrees are soon to be issued that will exact still greater tribute.

There is little change of importance since last week in the military situation. Residents of the capital are expecting that the rebel chief, Gen. Villa, who has appeared outside of Torreon, will reach here at an early date.

The question whether there is some new directing of the Huerta's movement, giving officials moments of uneasy speculation. Some believe that Gen. Felix Diaz and Gen. Mondragon, his chief lieutenant in the rising in the capital, almost a year ago, are active in opposition to the government.

The chief fear is that the rebels may cut communication between the capital and Vera Cruz. They now are raiding the district through which the inter-oceanic and Mexican railways extend and neither line is adequately guarded.

Is Not Acceptable.
Washington, January 24.—Francisco DeLaHara, the Huerta's successor, would not be acceptable to General Carranza or other Constitutionalist leaders, said Roberto V. Pesquera, confidential agent in Washington of the Constitutionalist, tonight.

"Madero failed," said Pesquera, "because he generously accepted the pretended support of the reactionaries whose first manifestation was the unsuccessful and ruinous government at interim of DeLaHara who never ceased secretly to conspire against the Madero government and who finally overthrew it through the blackest treachery known in modern times. With this element there can be no compromise; the people will not have it. Should a compromise be forced, the struggle nevertheless would continue because public opinion in Mexico is in the United States, demands government by the governed. The compromise with Huerta or a successor of his selection would be repudiated."

"We have no fear of intervention on the part of the American government, because, aside from the fifth we have in the policy of President Wilson, we know that the thinking men of this country—the great minds—realize that Mexico is in the making and is passing through a period of evolution preliminary to the establishment of a stable and democratic form of government."

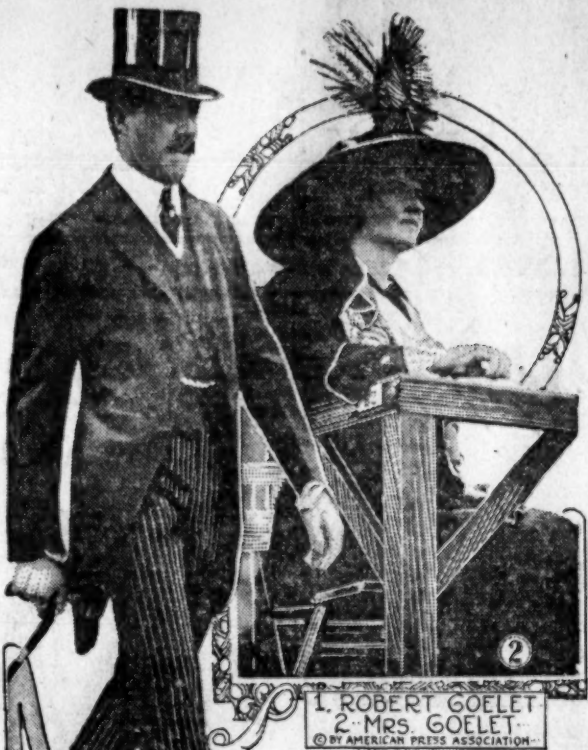

Peace and Order.
Peace and order prevail in Mexico City and foreigners and their property are as safe as in any other country, according to Consul General Shanahan, who has submitted his report to the State Department. The report says there are "no hardships, molestations or annoyances, of American citizens."

There were no reports to the department today of fresh engagements at any of the critical points in Mexico. In the State of Colima a brigand named Ayens is reported to be committing depredations near Manzanillo.

Philadelphia, January 24.—The battleship Ohio left the Philadelphia navy yard today for Vera Cruz. The ship has been under assignment to go to Mexican waters for some time, but was delayed because of the outbreak of smallpox among the crew of the recent cruise to Europe.

Millionaire Golet and Society Beauty.

1. ROBERT GOLET
2. MRS. GOLET
BY AMERICAN PRESS ASSOCIATION

Newport, R. I., January 24.—Mrs. Robert Golet has filed suit against her husband here for an absolute divorce. She alleges cruelty, gross misbehavior and wickedness in violation of the marriage covenant, but the complaint fails to specify any actual examples of these charges. Mr. and Mrs. Golet have been married less than ten years and their wedding, at which two of the greatest families in America were united, was the social event of the year. Mr. Golet is a son of the late Ogden Golet.

MURPHY'S ACCOUNTS.

District Attorney Whitman Subpoenas Business Men.
New York, January 24.—Officers of financial institutions throughout the State have been subpoenaed by District Attorney Charles S. Whitman to furnish him the documents necessary to show the accounts of Charles F. Murphy, Tammany leader, and James E. Gaffney, Murphy's political and business associate.

The wholesale requisition plan, aimed at the alleged graft system, involving State highway and barge canal contracts, includes the examination of the acts of Murphy and Gaffney for five years back.

This phase of the inquiry was undertaken as a result of testimony introduced recently at the John Doe inquiry and before the grand jury. The work was begun last night and according to information from Mr. Whitman's office, the prosecutor and his assistants already have obtained from bank officers, important knowledge of Murphy's and Gaffney's deposits.

United States Senator James O'Gorman will take the stand some day next week at the John Doe inquiry. Mr. O'Gorman, according to reports, will substantiate the story told Wednesday by William Sulzer as a witness.

The former Governor testified that Senator O'Gorman told him that Gaffney was "Murphy's chief bagman."

Mr. O'Gorman's testimony is expected to be of great importance in the case of the State.

CALLS FOR INVESTIGATION.

Assertion of Mr. Ernest Carroll, of Raleigh, Starts Something.
(Special Star Correspondence.)
Raleigh, N. C., January 24.—Chief of Police C. M. Waters applied to the city commission today for an investigation of his official competency and conduct and the investigation was ordered to be made.

This grows out of charges that were made by E. R. Carroll in a conference of prohibition enthusiasts Wednesday night of the enforcement of prohibition. There were twenty-four citizens in the meeting and Mr. Carroll asserted that, while there were standing on the force, who would do their duty, he was prepared to prove that Chief Walters was both incompetent and indisposed to have the prohibition laws enforced.

Mrs. Josephus Daniels, who is easily the most gracious lady of the cabinet, indeed, if not of the North Carolina colony, greeted the guests with a word of welcome, especially appropriate to each visitor.

Among the guests were: General Julian S. Carr, of Durham; John C. Mills, of Rutherfordton; Nixon Plummer, of Greensboro; W. A. Hobbs, of Sanford; W. B. Kenner, of Pleasant Garden; R. R. King and A. B. Kimball, of Greensboro; George Mebane, of Spray.

PLUCKING BOARD SCORED.

Able Bodied Men Plucked from Navy for Any Excuse.
Washington, Jan. 24.—Representatives Tribble and Howard, of Georgia, attacked the naval "plucking" board today, citing "outrageous cases" of admirals and other officers, able to perform service, who simply were drawing salaries and doing nothing as required men.

Representative Howard said Lieut. Com. Burt, of Georgia, "was wrongfully charged by certain parties with swindling some debts." After Burt had been retired for non-payment, said Mr. Howard, and President Taft had signed an order dismissing him from the service, The President found that Burt did not owe the debts, and rescinded his order.

"The swivel-headed admiralty was after Burt," Howard continued, "so the plucking board, not more than five months after the President had put Burt back in the service, plucked him for no other reason under the sun, than that he had appealed to the President."

The "plucking" of Commander Norton, retired, at $4,000 because "too small to be commander," also was among those specifically criticized in the appeal for the abolition of the board.

LAURINBURG BROKER FALLS FROM SECOND STORY.

H. L. Blue Falls on Pavement While Asleep—Death Expected.
(Special Star Telegram.)

Laurinburg, N. C., Jan. 24.—His bed room on the second floor of the State Bank building here, H. L. Blue, a young broker, was found early this morning in his night clothes unconscious on the pavement.

He had retired at 11 o'clock and all indications are that while walking in his sleep he fell from the second story window.

He is not expected to live.

Membership Announced—Charlotte Man is on the List.
Washington, Jan. 24.—President Wilson announced today the names of the members of the annual assay commission which is to meet at Philadelphia February 11th, to review the coinage of 1913. Douglas, Ariz., Jan. 24.—Three Mexican miners were killed and four others seriously injured last night in a cave-in at the mine at Cananea, Sonora, according to reports. J. S. Douglas, general manager of the company, left here for Cananea to begin an investigation.

New York, January 24.—The Veloce Line steamer Stampalla arrived today from Senoa, three days behind her schedule, owing to heavy weather. On January 18th a mountainous sea broke over the vessel, smashing the port rail, several iron doors and saloon windows. Two members of the crew were injured.

Norfolk, Va., Jan. 24.—The three-masted schooner Levi S. Andrews, from Philadelphia to Savannah with coal, which yesterday went ashore north of Cape Charles, was today towed into Norfolk by the wrecking tug I. J. Merritt, by which she was floated.

The library of the British Museum contains upwards of six hundred thousand play bills, valued in three hundred and forty volumes.

To smoke in garages, in bed, or around a table containing hay is deliberately to invite disaster.

Lameness

Sloan's Liniment is a speedy, reliable remedy for lameness in horses and farm stock. Here's proof.

"I had a horse sprain his shoulder by pulling, and he was so lame he could not carry foot at all. I got a bottle of your Liniment and put it on four times, and in three days he showed no lameness at all, and made a thirty mile trip besides."—Foster B. Aldenford, Jr., South, Ga.

For Splint and Thrush
"I have used Sloan's Liniment on a fine mare for splint and cured her. This makes the third horse I've cured. Have recommended it to my neighbors for thrush and they say it is fine. I find it best Liniment I ever used. I keep on hand your Sure Cure for myself and neighbors, and I can certainly recommend it for Colic."—E. J. Smith, McDonough, Ga.

Columbia, S. C., January 24.—By unanimously adopting the unfavorable report of the committee on the judiciary the House of Representatives today killed the bill which would extend the right of suffrage to women in the State. The bill also would have allowed women to practice law.

Man's greatest asset is the possibility of the future.

If every man makes good he will help make Wilmington.

Keep on remembering the page
where you turned over a new leaf.

A Congressman says "what the country needs is politics that is sound." It mostly is.

If 1913 did not do a good part for you, do something for yourself in 1914 so it may do more for you.

Get your share of the Spring business by advertising like those who always get their share that way.

A woman has an idea that a man is good because he acts in a subdued manner when the occasion suits.

Men are either at a standstill, going forward or going backward. Get in with the bunch that is going forward.

A man can act with wisdom a whole year and then play the fool just as the curtain is about to go down on his last act.

The suffragettes do not seem to be as busy as they were. Probably they have been too taken up with the social season.

If you can't boost your own town, boost the other fellow's. Then you will not be doing any harm knocking your own town.

Every man ought to want to live in a county in which court week isn't the most notable event in the county. In a busy county it is difficult to keep up with the date for court.

People who come to town to get something that is advertised generally get it. Hundreds come to town and leave without getting a bargain because it was not advertised so they could find it.

We are told to begin at the bottom and work up. Of course, it would be the opposite of that if you propose to do hard digging every day so you can lay the foundation of a fortune.

The next treaties we have with foreign nations ought to be considered by the ablest men of the country. Some of those treaties that give other nations all the advantage of us were negotiated by so-called diplomats.

"Men should treat each other with more consideration," urges a lady writer. As a general thing, they are not particular about the consideration when they treat each other. They take the deed for the word.

Says the Charleston Post: "A Charleston man invented the ice-making machine, and here both Florida and Louisiana are claiming him. It is a wonder that North Carolina doesn't put in an option." Probably the inventor was some North Carolinian who went to Charleston to experiment.

The Apex Journal notes that Mr. J.
H. Whittington, a farmer who lives near Apex, killed a pig which weighed 235 pounds and sold for $44.07 on the local market. One hundred of the same kind would have brought $4,407.
If there is good money in raising one there is big money in raising a hundred.

Unless you are handling your share of it, it may be news to you that $10, 000,000 more money is now in circulation than at the end of 1913. Industrial, business and agricultural operations become more active as the year advances; and the consequence is a greater flow of money. This will give people a chance to get back their Christmas money if they stay on the job.

The sale of safety razors has greatly increased, and we guess it is all right. Some men wouldn't be without them, but we have often shed tears in our effort to get on the good side of the safety razor. We have tried five different kinds but when whiskers three days old get tangled at the end of the blade it means either whiskers or tears, or both have to come. The family razor of the old kind acts in about the same way, but we refuse to pass final judgment till we get a chance to try the razor "made in Charlotte."

HUNDRED YEARS OF PEACE.

At this time one hundred years ago,
the United States and Great Britain were engaged in the war which broke out in 1812 and even continued till after a treaty of peace had been signed, for lack of cable and telegraphic news that would have put an end to hostilities on the very day when peace was declared. That war between the English speaking peoples officially came to an end on Christmas eve, 1814, when the Treaty of Ghent was signed by commissioners representing the United States and Great Britain.

A century of peace! That is what it will be on Christmas eve, 1914, and its celebration will not only be an international affair, but a world event of the most extraordinary character.
Not only will the United States and Great Britain take part in it, but France, Germany and other countries will participate. Canada, Australia, New Zealand and all other British countries will join the mother country and there will be a peace jubilee that will challenge the attention of all the world.

On Christmas eve, 1814, the Treaty of Ghent was signed by John Quincy Adams, James A. Bayard, Henry Clay, Albert Gallatin and Jonathan Russell, commissioners representing the United States. Those who attached their signatures for Great Britain were Lord Gambier, Dr. Adams and Henry Goulburn, Esq. After the treaty had been signed and peace was declared, John Quincy Adams uttered this prophetic quasi prayer: "May the gates of Janus closed here never be opened during the century."

They have never been opened since.
Had Mr. Adams lived until now he would have rejoiced in an actual hundred years of peace between us and our English kinsmen. May no century ever witness an infraction of the peace that was brought about one hundred years ago next Christmas!
It is hoped that the gates of Janus closed on that eventful Christmas eve in 1814 may forever remain closed.

It was natural that there should be a spontaneous desire on the part of the American and British peoples to commemorate the long years of peace with which our countries have been blessed. Early in 1814, peace societies were organized in Great Britain and America, and doubtless the growing spirit of amity and dread of war had its origin in them. Meanwhile, diplomacy, arbitration and civilizing influences have practically made it impossible for war between these people of kindred blood and tongue. Even during our short lifetime we have observed the matchless diplomacy and great National generosity of Great Britain towards averting a disturbance of the peace of the Nations, and then, too, America met her at every turn, and it is so now that there is abiding confidence in lasting peace.

The great English speaking nations set the world a glorious example by their amity. They have settled grave boundary disputes and brought about a peaceful solution of all their international controversies. Distrust seemed to vanish even a hundred years ago, and one of the strongest evidences of it is that nowhere on the thousands of miles of boundary between the United States and British territory is there a frowning fortification to face Americans, or forts and armies on the American side to face the British. There is something not only remarkable but marvelous in the confidence and friendship which has banished all idea of the need of preparedness against hostilities from either side.

Fitting preparations are being made in the United States for the celebration next Yuletide and the American committee of arrangements consists of hundreds of the most eminent men in this country. They represent every profession and calling, and among them are the names of such eminent men as Woodrow Wilson, Theodore Roosevelt, William Howard Taft, Alton B. Parker, Adlai Stevenson, Levi
P. Morton, William J. Bryan, Joseph Daniels, Dr. Albert Shaw, Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler, and scores of others of equal prominence. Sentiment all over the United States is in accord with the occasion, and as the present year closes we will witness an event that will bind the ties between the English people closer than they have been for more than 300 years.

CITY PAPERS CALLED DOWN.

In a sincere protest, the editors of the country newspapers in Missouri have thrown out a valuable hint to the editors of the city papers, and barring the fact that it is a bit amusing, the suggestion to the "big papers" is worth considering in one particular—that they make greater use of their columns for constructive matter.
The press generally seeks to startle, astonish, entertain and amuse the public without giving it the benefit of practical features that will help to build up the country. Taking a humorous view of what has happened in Missouri, the Philadelphia Record has this to say:

"Shall there be no cakes and ale? Is there no one we may laugh at good humored without getting into trouble?"

The stage Irishman and the stage Jew have been warned to keep out of sight. The funny papers have been notified that the countrymen will not come to town and put up at the swell hotels and buy bills of goods if the city jokesmiths do not stop chattering about naysayers and gold brokers and that sort of thing. And now the country editors of Missouri, in convention assembled, solemnly declare that the city newspapers would render a great service by devoting more space to items which advertise the progress being made over the State, and less attention to grammatical errors or local matters which tend to bring ridicule upon the country press in particular and the rural districts in general. But it's a solemn thing to live in a big city, and are the rural districts really hurt by a little urban merriment?"

When the worm turns, what else is to be done than to wry? The Irish and the Jew got tired seeing themselves caricatured and they not only protested against it, but boycotted where their numbers were sufficient to make the loss of patronage felt. It then ceased to be funny with the theatres. Now that the country press and the farmers don't care to be made fun of, humor has to take another direction. Uncle Sam and the colored individual seem to be the only ones who don't care two straws about it, and we guess they have to be classed as philosophers.

We have an idea that everybody enjoys a real good joke, but it is ridiculous that people can't stand for While humor will continue to be one of the features of the newspapers, it is not a bad idea that the city press should devote more space to matters which promote progress. The city papers really are doing that more than ever; for the newspapers of New York and other large cities are almost daily discussing phases of agriculture as well as business, manufacturing and finance. They are realizing that it is the basis of all.

THEY FEAR THE LAW.

The Philadelphia Bulletin (Progressive) once had an idea that it could be happy with President Wilson, but it will not consent to be otherwise than woefully and unless the President gives us his idea of the creation of an Interstate Trade Commission.
The Bulletin had expected something of the President when he delivered his personal message to Congress last Tuesday and pronounced "a constitution of peace" because it looked as if "the antagonism between business and the government is over," but the five bills, called "the five little brothers" by the Bulletin, introduced in Congress to carry out the President's suggestions, have greatly distressed the Philadelphia paper.

The Bulletin is disappointed because the bills seem to be more radical than the ideas expressed by the President, but really they simply put into law what the President said ought to be the law. We fear that the real trouble with the standpatters is that they are disappointed because the Wilson idea really is to become the law of the land. No doubt, what they had hoped was that the President would deliver his message and then let the whole thing go to sleep, so that wrong-doing would not have any more to contend with than it has in the past. Those who don't want effective law must be disappointed because they won't be permitted to go on wronging the public.

The Bulletin is particularly down on the bill to create an Interstate Trade Commission and pronounces it unconstitutional. The contention is that its five members are "to constitute the grand jury, the grand inquest and possibly the inquisition of the business of the country." The fear is that "their power of investigation is absolute."

We do not know what could be expected of such a commission if it did not have the power to do something.
Of course, violators of the law would consider it an awfully nice affair if it should happen to be powerless enough to be defied or ignored. The fact is, the Wilson Interstate Trade Commission comes very nearly being the same kind of body suggested by both Roosevelt and Taft. The only practical difference is that the commission will be in the hands of the people and not in the hands of those who care more for big business than they do the people.

HOMESEEKERS' EXCURSIONS.

This is the season of the homeseek-ers' excursions to Florida and from the press of that State it is learned that thousands of Northern and Western farmers are going there to look over propositions that have been put up to them. When the homeseeker leaves home for Florida he knows where he is going and what he is going to see, and with the numerous farms companies and settlement syn-dicates to introduce them to new opportunities, there is no wonder that Florida's population just keeps on growing.

The Gulf States also are working the trick like Florida. From the New Orleans States it is learned that the Germans, Lumber Company, which is developing a settlement in Tanganania parish, entertained 62 farmers from Wisconsin, Illinois, Indiana and Ohio last Wednesday. They came South to look over opportunities for themselves and other homeseek-ers, and they were given all the particulars about the climate, the lands, the crops, the markets and the advantages of the South. A banquet was given to the visitors and the State had a representative from the Immigration Division of the State Agricultural Department in attendance to talk to the homeseekers and give them the fullest information on the conditions and possibilities of agriculture in Louisiana. Four other speakers also spoke on different phases of farming and its possibilities, and no one need doubt that the visitors were favorably impressed.

This is the way some of our Southern States are getting settlers. They are going up against those definite and attractive Canadian propositions with some of the same kind from the productive South. There is no secret about it. It requires organization and work.

NEW REFRIGERATOR LINE.

The New York Journal of Commerce announces that arrangements have been completed in New York for the establishment of a new refrigerator line between the Atlantic seaboard and points West and Middle West, for the transportation of dairy products, dressed meats, poultry, truck, etc.

The newly organized line has taken over the recently built Atlantic Line and its connections.

Henry H. Brigham, of New York, is manager and a full staff of officers and agents has been appointed. Mr.
D. J. McGilvray will be Eastern dairy agent and will have his headquarters at Pier 13, North River, New York.
The new line is well spoken of and it is quite likely it will sooner or later look into the South for business.

CURRENT COMMENT.

The change from the fee system to the salary system saves the county more than $3,000 last year in the office of the register of deeds. And the remuneration is still such that there will never be of our State and its people seeking the office. The salary system is the right and business-like way of conducting public business. The salary system is faster and better, but it should have been adopted by all of them years ago. Suppose North Carolina had in good roads the Social Service, it would have saved these years by paying salaries to all the county officers? — Greensboro News.

"I doubt whether any meeting has ever been held in North Carolina with such a comprehensive and constructive programme for the general upbuilding of our State and its people.
Every patriotic North Carolinian, and especially every earnest church member, ought to try to attend." That is the utterance of Governor Locke Craig with regard to the meeting of the North Carolina Conference for Social Service to be held in Raleigh next month, on February 13th, 14th and 15th, and it is an opinion which the programme of the meeting amply warrants. From the time the conference is opened by Governor Craig on Friday morning until its close, Sunday afternoon, with the great auditorium mass meeting on the Church and Social Service, every hour of the day will be packed with plans for the upbuilding of the State.—Raleigh News and Observer.

Throughout North Carolina there will be much gratification in the appointment of ex-Governor Robert H.
Glen as the member of the International Boundary Commission. Governor Glenn having stated that this position had been tendered him by President Wilson, and that he had accepted it, it is a matter of a high order, zealous in any cause which he undertakes, courageous and true, he deservedly holds a high place in the esteem of the people of the State.
That he will make a useful and valuable member of the International Boundary Commission is not to be doubted. The Democracy has always found in him a man alive to its interests, the State has benefited by his labors, and when he enters upon the discharge of the duties of the position which has been offered him he will do so with the good wishes of a great host of friends.—Raleigh News and Observer.

If there be ten men in South Carolina whose fortunes aggregate $10, 000,000 and the average income from their investments is five per cent, they are due the State an annual income tax of $4,750. Any informed business man knows that ten South Carolinians worth more than that aggregate wealth. If there be thirty others worth half a million dollars or more each,
they should pay a total of $4,750.
In the forty-four counties there are at least a conservative guess five hundred persons having fortunes of $100, 000 up to half a million. There are at least four hundred such persons in five leading counties. The income tax of the five hundred should be $2,375. Thus the State income tax revenues should be at least $24,000 from five hundred and forty persons.
This estimate takes no account of the thousands of men earning a wage of $2,500, the amount exempt from the payment of the tax. There are some thousands drawing salaries in excess of $2,500 and, therefore, liable for the tax who have no large properties.—Columbia State.

MISSION LECTURES.

For the colored at St. Thomas' Catholic Church.

The Rev. Father Thomas' Catholic Church.
Beginning this morning at 10:30 o'clock and with services each evening at 8 P. M., ending Friday, January 30th, a series of lectures will be given at St. Thomas' Catholic church, for the colored Catholics and non-Catholics of Wilmington.

The purpose of this mission is to make known to our non-Catholic friends what the Catholic church really believes and teaches, and to prove to the non-Catholic mind that the Catholic church is the one divine teacher who can tell with absolute certainty the entire revelation of God.
The doctrines, the practices, of the Catholic Church will be explained and proved in all friendliness and charity.
We leave all other churches alone and prove our own to be the one true faith. Him who came to save mankind. The subjects treated are of vital importance to everyone who desires to know with certainty the teachings of Jesus Christ.

We know that there are many good and pure souls in "outside" Christianity who are seeking for spiritual light and yet know not where to find it.
They are worried because of the contradictory teaching of their leaders;
they are troubled because they have no certainty of the pardon of their sins; they are perplexed because their belief in the Bible is being shattered by the newer criticisms; they realize the utter inability of a fragmentary Christianity to meet the great evils of the day; divorce, race suicide, socialism, and religious education, inferiorism and unbelief. Come and hear these matters, which are of the most vital importance, treated by Father Borja, who is a convert to the Catholic faith. He was raised in the Episcopal belief and for several years was a minister in charge of a church in Philadelphia, Pa. These lectures will explain what the oldest church has to say for herself. Learn her doctrines at first hand. Do not condemn her unheard. If you come in the car of Christ you will find her a great upholder of the rights of God, and of man, the one divine teacher to lead your soul to God, the Lord.

The order of the lectures is as follows:

1. Sunday morning, January 25, at 10:30 o'clock—"The Faith of the Catholic Church."
2. Sunday evening, January 25, at 8 o'clock—"The Faith of the Catholic Church."
3. Monday, Jan. 26, at 8 P. M.—
"The Worst Thing in the Catholic Church."
4. Tuesday, Jan. 27, at 8 P. M.—
"Of What Use is the Bible?"
5. Wednesday, January 28, at 8 P.

DO YOU PATRONIZE HOME INDUSTRIES?

Those of you who have been making your purchases away from Wilmington should think before patronizing mail order and houses away from home any further.

Who sympathized with you when your little girl was sick? Was it the mail order house?

Who carried you last winter when you were out of a job and had no money? Was it the mail order house or was it your home merchant?

When you want to raise money for the church or for some needy person in town, do you write to the mail order house, or do you go to your home merchant?

How much does the mail order house give towards keeping up sidewalks or paying the minister's salary?

When you were sick how many nights did the mail order house sit up with you?

When you had to raise money to pay your gas bill, did you get it from the mail order house or a home merchant or contractor?

When your loved one was buried, was it your home merchant who dropped the tear of sympathy and uttered the cheering word, or was it the mail order house?

ON IMMENSE SCALE

Holdings of N. C. Company are 230,000 Acres

Drainage Experts of Agricultural Department to be Sent to Bolton to Make Surveys—To Enforce Drainage Scheme.

The immensity of the scale upon which the North Carolina Company, of Chicago, Ill., plans to carry on its colonization work at its holdings around Bolton, previous mention of which has been made, is indicated in a dispatch from The Star's Washington correspondent last night relative to steps which the company is taking to have the United States Agricultural Department send experts down to make drainage surveys of the land.

The holdings of the North Carolina Company, which were purchased from the Waccamaw Lumber Company, consist of 230,000 acres of swampy timber and swamp lands lying in Columbus and Brunswick counties. The amount paid for the land has not been announced, but local rumors have placed it as high as a million dollars. The deal is certainly one of the biggest consummated in this section in many years.

Capitalized at $375,000. The capitalization of the company is $375,000, and it was recently organized with its office in the National Bank Building, of Chicago, for the purpose of developing cut-over land and swamp land in this section into modern farms, and colonizing these farms with farmers from the West and Middle West.

The following is from The Star's Washington correspondent:

Washington, D. C., Jan. 24.—Representative Godwin was notified today that the Waccamaw Lumber Company, of Bolton, had sold 230,000 acres of swamp lands to the North Carolina Company, of Illinois. The North Carolina Company is a new concern, just organized in the State, with a capital of $375,000, with its main object the development of the swamp lands in the State. The land is located in Columbus and Brunswick counties, and it will be utilized for agriculture. Mr. Godwin, president of the company, took the matter up with Representative Godwin today with a view of having the Department of Agriculture send experts to the State to make preliminary surveys. The Department has already promised Mr. Godwin to send drainage engineers to make preliminary surveys and estimate the cost. Mr. Godwin believes that the idea of sending industrial Western farmers to the State should be encouraged and their location there will be of great benefit to the State.

CARNegie AWARD

TO MRS. ARTLEY.

Further Details Carried in Article in Atlanta Paper.

While mention has already been made of the award by the Carnegie Hero Fund Commission of a silver medal and a pension of $500 a month to Mrs. J. D. Artley, widow of the young man who lost his life attempting to save Dr. Ralph E. Knouse, of the United States Marine Hospital service, from drowning at Wrightsville Beach last summer, the following from the Atlanta Journal of Friday will be of interest here:

"Washington, Jan. 23.—In recognition of the bravery and heroism of John D. Artley, of LaGrange, who lost his life at Wrightsville Beach last summer trying to effect a rescue, the Carnegie hero fund commission has awarded to his widow a pension of $50 a month for herself and $3 a month for her dependent child, Mrs. Artley lives at 120 Hill street, LaGrange.

The heroism of Artley was called to the attention of the Carnegie hero fund commission by Congressman Adamson, of the Fourth district, and Dr. N. C. Stiles, of the United States Marine Hospital service at Wilmington, N. C. Judge Adamson received notice today of the action of the commission, and a copy of the letter, which was sent to Mrs. Artley yesterday, as follows:

"Pittsburg, Pa., Jan. 21, 1914.

"Mrs. Lucile F. Artley, 120 Hill street, LaGrange, Ga.

"Dear Madam:—Through the courtesy of Dr. W. C. Stiles, of United States Marine Hospital, Wilmington, N. C., and the Hon. W. C. Adamson, of House of Representatives, Washington, D. C., the attention of the Carnegie hero commission has been called to an act performed by your husband, John D. Artley, by which on May 31st, 1913, he attempted to save Ralph E. Knouse from death by drowning in the Atlantic ocean at Wrightsville Beach, N. C., but in the performance of which act he met death himself.

"His case after a thorough investigation, was considered at a meeting of the commission held this afternoon and I have much pleasure in informing you that, in recognition of your husband's heroism on that occasion, the commission awarded you a silver medal, and death benefits at the rate of $50 a month during life or until you re-marry, or until further notice, with $3 a month additional for your son, John D. Jr., while he is dependent upon you and until he reaches the age of 18.

"I shall be obliged if you will kindly advise me without delay, by letter bearing your wish to accept the commission's award. If your reply is affirmative, the medal will be ordered and delivered to you as soon as it has been received from the manufacturer, and I will send you the first payment of monthly allowance awarded you promptly upon hearing from you.

Hurt by Fall of Pipe.

Arthur Smith, the 15-year-old son of Mr. Graham Smith, while walking along Market street yesterday morning at 8:15 o'clock, was painfully hurt by the falling of an iron awning pipe which was blown down by the wind. He suffered an ugly gash on the head and was painfully bruised on the hip. He was taken to his home, No. 519 Nun street, where Dr. J. B. Cramer rendered the necessary surgical attention. He is getting along nicely.

Keen Interest is Manifested in Production of "The House That Jack Built."

As announced two months ago, the Housewives' League of Wilmington will make an elaborate inspection of places where food is kept and sold in the city, provided the proprietors desire it, the results of which will be graded and those scoring over 85 per cent given display cards announcing the endorsement of the league. The central council desire to explain publicly the method which has been prescribed by the National organization with which the local league is affiliated.

Stores Inviting Inspection.

The following food stores have notified the local league that they desire to be inspected and graded under this plan: J. J. Hopkins, Son & Co.; Davis & Hintze; Palace Market; Cape Fear Grocery; Holmes Grocery Co.; Siwasa; Holmes & Atkinson; Partin Grocery; Wilmington Grocery; Globe Bakery Company; Royal Baking Co.; B. May Delicatessen; Dinos, Orton Confectionery; A. G. Warren, and People's Supply Co.

Inspection Blank.

The detail of the examination is indicated by the items appearing on the blank furnished by the Housewives' League, an outline of which follows:

General information—name of shop, type of shop, address, name of Nationality of proprietor; how long proprietor of shop.

Description of sales rooms—Ventilation, light, cleanliness, above or below street level, large or small. Are doors and windows screened effectively? Is there a living room back of shop? Location of water closets, location of wash rooms. Is there running water? Kind of towels used.

Description of stock rooms—Where located? Condition of floor. Material of floor. Is there space between floor and food stored. Evidence of vermin.

Stock in store—Character of meat, vegetables, pastry, confectionery, groceries, breads, milk, butter and eggs. Is food to be consumed without further preparation protected from dust and flies? Are all uncovered goods raised from floor to protect them from dirt and animals in accordance with local law which requires two feet of elevation? Is bread protected from handling and exposure to dust and dirt?

Cleanliness—Hands and garments of clerks. Apparent condition of health. Condition of shop as to floor, meat black, counters and shelves, windows and refrigerator. Evidence of flies on walls and on fixtures. Evidence of vermin. Are there covered receptacles for garbage. Kind of wrapping paper. Are newspapers used for wrapping food? Are foods displayed in the entrance? Any evidence of spitting on the floor and behind counters?

General remarks.

Grading of Blanks.

The blanks are filled out by the inspectors and graded by the Central Council.

Those scoring above 85 per cent are forwarded to the National Housewives' League's executive committee, who send display cards announcing the endorsement of the league for the places of business so graded.

Those scoring below 85 per cent and above 75 per cent are considered acceptable, but do not receive endorsement until they have achieved a grading above 85 per cent by improving conditions in their places of business.

No merchant will be graded above 85 per cent who is not obeying both the spirit and the letter of the local food laws. A copy of which was sent to each purveyor of foodstuffs, two months ago.

One of the most important features of co-operation in the food handling business by housewives is systematic ordering of supplies early in the day so that the business men may select the freshest and best quality of goods.

The Recorder, however, after hearing the argument of counsel, thought differently and held him guilty of the offense charged. Prayer for judgment was continued upon payment of the costs. Solicitor Paschua was assisted in the prosecution by ex-Judge E. K. Bryan and W. P. Stacy, Esq., and the defendant was represented by W. P. Gafford, Esq.

John Moore and Charlie Moseley, both colored, were charged with the larceny of some meat but as the evidence against them was rather flimsy a nol prosequi was taken. They were seen on the street dividing some of the meat and a policeman appeared and ran away. Moseley was arrested and Moore was found later on.

JUSTICE HARRISS' COURT.

Number of Arrests Made Yesterday

On Warrants.

There were a number of arrests made yesterday on warrants which were sworn out yesterday before Justice Harris. E. E. Newberry was arrested on a charge of disposing of mortgaged property, the affidavit being made out by the Queen Cycle Co. He gave bond for his appearance for trial Monday before Justice Harris.

Cornelius Green and son Jones, both colored, arrested on warrants charging them with retailing. The papers in the above cases were served by Constable Davis.

William McQuillan, colored, and wife, of Carolina Beach, were arrested by Deputy Sheriff Reynolds on warrants charging them with assaulting Serena Roberts, colored. McQuillan gave bond and his wife was recognized for their appearance tomorrow for trial.

Semi-annual Clearance.

Mr. M. J. Merritt, the well known real estate broker, who made a big advertisement to be known as "Dixie's Greatest Bargain Giver," announced in a large advertisement in the city's paper that he was holding a Clearance Sale at J. W. H. Fuchs' department store on South Front street. This big sale opens next Thursday and the stock is now being arranged and placed in readiness for the great bargain days that are to follow. The advertisement is commended to the careful reading of those who would save money on their necessities.

THANKS TO ADVERTISERS.

The Publicity Committee of the United Missionary Conference desire to thank the advertisers in the local papers for the use of their space, which aided greatly in the preparation for the mass meetings and conferences. PUBLICITY COMMITTEE.

MOTHER GOOSE COMING SOON

Keen Interest is Manifested in Production of "The House That Jack Built."

A big house warming for all Wilmington is being prepared in "The House That Jack Built," which will be given at the Academy of Music on next Friday afternoon and again Saturday night. All the little folk and all the young folk are looking forward with eager anticipation toward seeing a real Mother Goose, and all the big folk and all the older folk are preparing to live over again the pleasure of their youth with Humpty Dumpty, Simple Simon and scores of other old friends.

Indeed, "The House That Jack Built," promises to be one of the leading social events of the season. The ticket committee, now actively at work, report splendid success in the disposal of tickets for the big affair.

The fact that from fifteen to twenty choruses have already been learned and practiced, and which reflects great credit on the able director, Mrs. Neva Summers Burgess, on the boys and girls who are taking part, and on the efficient training they have had at other hands.

Group training is now the order of the day, forty or more boys practicing yesterday morning for crows and blackbirds. The dances are now in full swing, and the crooked man is learning to walk his crooked way, and do his crooked stunts with such inimitable crookedness as to assure a crooked house full of golden crooks.

BEFORE THE RECORDER.

Interesting Point of Law Raised in Case of Food Peddling.

John M. Kloss, white, was before the Recorder yesterday on a charge of peddling brooms in the city without license. He stated that he had the brooms shipped to him from a Virginia firm. While they were still in the freight office he said that he got a sack order, and when he delivered them the next day, he contended that this was inter-State commerce and was, therefore, not under the jurisdiction of the city.

The Recorder, however, after hearing the argument of counsel, thought differently and held him guilty of the offense charged. Prayer for judgment was continued upon payment of the costs. Solicitor Paschua was assisted in the prosecution by ex-Judge E. K. Bryan and W. P. Stacy, Esq., and the defendant was represented by W. P. Gafford, Esq.

John Moore and Charlie Moseley, both colored, were charged with the larceny of some meat but as the evidence against them was rather flimsy a nol prosequi was taken. They were seen on the street dividing some of the meat and a policeman appeared and ran away. Moseley was arrested and Moore was found later on.

INSPECTION OF FOOD STORES

Explanation of Method Prescribed by Housewives' League—Results Will be Graded.

As announced two months ago, the Housewives' League of Wilmington will make an elaborate inspection of places where food is kept and sold in the city, provided the proprietors desire it, the results of which will be graded and those scoring over 85 per cent given display cards announcing the endorsement of the league. The central council desire to explain publicly the method which has been prescribed by the National organization with which the local league is affiliated.

Stores Inviting Inspection.

The following food stores have notified the local league that they desire to be inspected and graded under this plan: J. J. Hopkins, Son & Co.; Davis & Hintze; Palace Market; Cape Fear Grocery; Holmes Grocery Co.; Siwasa; Holmes & Atkinson; Partin Grocery; Wilmington Grocery; Globe Bakery Company; Royal Baking Co.; B. May Delicatessen; Dinos, Orton Confectionery; A. G. Warren, and People's Supply Co.

Inspection Blank.

The detail of the examination is indicated by the items appearing on the blank furnished by the Housewives' League, an outline of which follows:

General information—name of shop, type of shop, address, name of Nationality of proprietor; how long proprietor of shop.

Description of sales rooms—Ventilation, light, cleanliness, above or below street level, large or small. Are doors and windows screened effectively? Is there a living room back of shop? Location of water closets, location of wash rooms. Is there running water? Kind of towels used.

Description of stock rooms—Where located? Condition of floor. Material of floor. Is there space between floor and food stored. Evidence of vermin.

Stock in store—Character of meat, vegetables, pastry, confectionery, groceries, breads, milk, butter and eggs. Is food to be consumed without further preparation protected from dust and flies? Are all uncovered goods raised from floor to protect them from dirt and animals in accordance with local law which requires two feet of elevation? Is bread protected from handling and exposure to dust and dirt?

Cleanliness—Hands and garments of clerks. Apparent condition of health. Condition of shop as to floor, meat black, counters and shelves, windows and refrigerator. Evidence of flies on walls and on fixtures. Evidence of vermin. Are there covered receptacles for garbage. Kind of wrapping paper. Are newspapers used for wrapping food? Are foods displayed in the entrance? Any evidence of spitting on the floor and behind counters?

General remarks.

Grading of Blanks.

The blanks are filled out by the inspectors and graded by the Central Council.

Those scoring above 85 per cent are forwarded to the National Housewives' League's executive committee, who send display cards announcing the endorsement of the league for the places of business so graded.

Those scoring below 85 per cent and above 75 per cent are considered acceptable, but do not receive endorsement until they have achieved a grading above 85 per cent by improving conditions in their places of business.

No merchant will be graded above 85 per cent who is not obeying both the spirit and the letter of the local food laws. A copy of which was sent to each purveyor of foodstuffs, two months ago.

One of the most important features of co-operation in the food handling business by housewives is systematic ordering of supplies early in the day so that the business men may select the freshest and best quality of goods.

The Recorder, however, after hearing the argument of counsel, thought differently and held him guilty of the offense charged. Prayer for judgment was continued upon payment of the costs. Solicitor Paschua was assisted in the prosecution by ex-Judge E. K. Bryan and W. P. Stacy, Esq., and the defendant was represented by W. P. Gafford, Esq.

John Moore and Charlie Moseley, both colored, were charged with the larceny of some meat but as the evidence against them was rather flimsy a nol prosequi was taken. Scared the By-standers.

Because Thomas Maske Jones, a big burly negro, thought that it was the proper thing to brandish a handy pistol around to the astonishment and bewilderment of a crowd of blacks in Brown's pool room, a place of amusement for the colored population on Second street, last yesterday afternoon, he was arrested by Policemen Jones and Sessions and lodged in the city prison to await a settlement of the alleged conduct before the Recorder tomorrow morning. He is charged with carrying concealed weapons.

POPE REPORTED SICK.

Denial of Newspaper Article Comes from Vatican.

Rome, Jan. 24.—The Tribune published an article today on the health of the Pope which brought forth a strong denial from the Vatican. "Although the pope daily receives cardinals and bishops," says the Tribune, "frequently granting collective audiences, his health causes anxiety. The pope sometimes requires the administration of stimulants so that he may be able to grant audiences, which is his wish to grant at any cost." At the Vatican it was declared that the condition of the pontiff is normal. Officials added that precautions have been taken to conserve the strength of the pope in every way. Audiences have been diminished and fatiguing ceremonies have been postponed or dispensed with. It was said heart stimulants are administered only on the orders of the pope's physician.

VICTORIA THEATRE.

Beseiged for Eight Days

With a glorious crash, so to speak, the Victoria Theatre, the home of Keith vaudeville, brought its second week to a close last night, before "standing room only" audiences, and is ready now to enter upon its third. And this third gives promise of being much more artistically glorious than its predecessors. Carrying out its idea for variety and novelty, coupled, of course, with the highest standard of merit, the Victoria management has selected rare bills for this week. Billie, because the Victoria offers two shows each week, has a new and a different bill for each of the first part. The bill that will open at matinee tomorrow afternoon contains some of the cleverest and vaudeville people on the stage and represent the pick of the Keith Circuit. As each act will be a topiner a dislocation cannot be drawn as to merit. Included in the bill will be Smith & Farmer, one of the best known sketch teams; Rogers & Dorna, another noted team, which is presenting a decidedly novel act, as while Comedian Rogers appears as a blackface, Miss Dorna, a decidedly clever young woman, does a "man-fact" character; Paul Gault, the well known acrobat and whose act will prove a rare treat and one that should not be missed, and the Playing Henry, a new and apparently forgetful of the weapons and ammunition with which he had converted himself into a walking arsenal, and meekly surrendered.

Marville, N. Y., Jan. 24.—After holding the entire sheriff's force of Chautauque county at bay for eight days from his dilapidated farm house fortress, Edward Beardsley is a prisoner in the county jail here. He is charged with shooting Overseer of the Poor Putnam. Beardsley says he shot Putnam in defense of his home. The defendant, a downpour which was shot, rifle or revolver every one who attempted to approach his stronghold, turns out to have been nothing more than a sheep in a lion's clothing. He was captured single handed, having witted when he found himself looking into the muzzle of a revolver. Beardsley also contained the heat of the audience, and the women and the apartment for the janitor on the first floor. The church is well ventilated and has ample lighting facilities, the windows alone having cost $1,000. Within a short time electric lights will be installed. The building was started three years ago and cost $200,000. Under the able leadership of the pastor the congregation has been able to carry the proposition through a successful campaign. When the pastor assumed charge of the church nine years ago there was a membership of 150 and today the membership numbers more than 700. The dedication services will begin on the fourth Sunday in February and will continue through the following Sunday when Rev. C. F. Walker, D. of Augusta, Ga., will formally dedicate the edifice.

NORTHWEST STORM WARNINGS ARE UP.

Weather Here Yesterday Was Fitful—Small Schooner Outside.

With northwest storm warnings up from Jacksonville to Boston, and fitful gusts of strong wind alternating with hard showers, this section is promised still further variety in the way of the weather, which has been frankish for the past week or so. Starting with a downpour which began Friday night and continued until well on into the morning yesterday, the weather indulged in a number of spasms during the afternoon, and then settled down last night to what promised to be a sharp little storm.

The local office of the weather bureau received from headquarters at Washington yesterday afternoon, instructions to hoist northwest storm warnings, Jacksonville to Boston. The storm at that time was reported as central over southeast Virginia and moving east-northeast. Increasing shifting winds, becoming west and northwest and higher, were predicted for the night.

High tides prevailed at Wrightsville Beach and other points along the adjacent coast Friday night, and in all probability they went still higher last night. No reports of shipping in distress came in during the early part of the night, but it was reported that a small auxiliary fishing schooner, which has been deep sea fishing about 30 or 40 miles off shore and lying up in Beaufort Channel at night, did not come in last night. The boat went out from the channel Friday morning and up to an early hour last evening she had not returned to the channel at Wrightsville. However, there is a probability that she went in at Corapeake or Topsail inlets, when the rough weather broke out. She carries a crew of five men.

IMPROVEMENT OF ROADS.

Work on Villa View Section Will be Completed Within a Month.

Rapid progress is being made in the improvement of the Villa View road from the intersection of the suburban line of the Tidewater Power Company to Wrightsville Sound and it is expected that it will be completed within a month. Twelve cars of rock were delivered to the road the past week.

A survey of the proposed new Hewlett creek road, a distance of two miles, has been made from Greenville Sound to Hewlett's creek so that everything will be in readiness for the road work to begin work on this road as soon as the Villa View road has been completed.

The force that has been engaged in building a road at Acorn Branch has been moved to Wrightsville Sound to do some repair work on the section of road bordering on the sound. As soon as this is completed the work at Acorn Branch will be resumed.

Youth Exonerated of Charge.

Relatives in the city have received news that Archie King, Jr., a former Wilmington boy, was tried in Jacksonville, Fla., last week on a charge of killing another youth. The jury was out only 15 minutes and returned a verdict of not guilty. He shot a cumb a few weeks ago killing him almost instantly. It was claimed that the shooting was entirely accidental.

NO SMALLPOX HERE.

General Vaccination a Few Years Ago Thought to Be the Cause.

While other places in the State are in the throes of smallpox Wilmington and vicinity are practically free of the disease. This is thought to be due to the general vaccination that followed the epidemic of a few years ago. Since that time, it is stated, there have been only a few cases of the disease. The health authorities will find it necessary to vaccinate people occasionally though it is not often that a person is found that was not vaccinated during the prevalence of the disease a few years ago.

Weather Here Yesterday Was Fitful—Small Schooner Outside.

With northwest storm warnings up from Jacksonville to Boston, and fitful gusts of strong wind alternating with hard showers, this section is promised still further variety in the way of the weather, which has been frankish for the past week or so. Starting with a downpour which began Friday night and continued until well on into the morning yesterday, the weather indulged in a number of spasms during the afternoon, and then settled down last night to what promised to be a sharp little storm.

The local office of the weather bureau received from headquarters at Washington yesterday afternoon, instructions to hoist northwest storm warnings, Jacksonville to Boston. The storm at that time was reported as central over southeast Virginia and moving east-northeast. Increasing shifting winds, becoming west and northwest and higher, were predicted for the night.

High tides prevailed at Wrightsville Beach and other points along the adjacent coast Friday night, and in all probability they went still higher last night. No reports of shipping in distress came in during the early part of the night, but it was reported that a small auxiliary fishing schooner, which has been deep sea fishing about 30 or 40 miles off shore and lying up in Beaufort Channel at night, did not come in last night. The boat went out from the channel Friday morning and up to an early hour last evening she had not returned to the channel at Wrightsville. However, there is a probability that she went in at Corapeake or Topsail inlets, when the rough weather broke out. She carries a crew of five men.

IMPROVEMENT OF ROADS.

Work on Villa View Section Will be Completed Within a Month.

Rapid progress is being made in the improvement of the Villa View road from the intersection of the suburban line of the Tidewater Power Company to Wrightsville Sound and it is expected that it will be completed within a month. Twelve cars of rock were delivered to the road the past week.

A survey of the proposed new Hewlett creek road, a distance of two miles, has been made from Greenville Sound to Hewlett's creek so that everything will be in readiness for the road work to begin work on this road as soon as the Villa View road has been completed.

The force that has been engaged in building a road at Acorn Branch has been moved to Wrightsville Sound to do some repair work on the section of road bordering on the sound. As soon as this is completed the work at Acorn Branch will be resumed.

Youth Exonerated of Charge.

Relatives in the city have received news that Archie King, Jr., a former Wilmington boy, was tried in Jacksonville, Fla., last week on a charge of killing another youth. The jury was out only 15 minutes and returned a verdict of not guilty. He shot a cumb a few weeks ago killing him almost instantly. It was claimed that the shooting was entirely accidental.

On the Potomac forest, Idaho, 230,000 trees were planted during the past year, and almost half a million in the past three years. Fully three-fourths of which are alive and doing well.

Experiments in the use of aspen for shingles show that the shingles do not check in seasoning, and that they turn water satisfactorily, but that they are too easily broken in handling.

Phonographic records of the waltz song "Adele" have been made in sixty-five languages ranging from English to Tagalog.

John Park, who is invested with the role of Baron de Chantilly in the touring company of "Adele," will play the leading role next season in a musical play adapted from one of Harold McGrath's popular novels.

Waist Styles and Materials

The loose waist and the kimono sleeve still retain their popularity, whether in the separate waist, the costume or the simple dress. For the early season the sleeve will be either three-quarter or full length, and it is probable that the three-quarter length will retain its popularity throughout the season. Transparent materials are used for the full length sleeve, sometimes it is only the lower portion which is transparent, in other models the entire sleeve is of the thin fabric.

The Separate Waist will, for the early season, be largely white and made of transparent fabrics, also of Silks and Crepe de Chine.

The New Waists Are Here.

POWERFUL DEMONSTRATION.

To be Made in Albanian Water by European Powers.

London, Jan. 24.—The powers of Europe have decided on an international demonstration in Albanian waters to force their demands that Essad Pasha give up his claim to the throne of Albania. Each nation will send one ship to Durazzo.

This action also is taken as an intimation to Turkey that the future of Albania is a European nation. In the event of Essad Pasha yielding before the arrival at Durazzo of the international fleet, the ships will be utilized to welcome Prince William of Wied, selected by the European nations to occupy the Albanian throne.

The demand by the Prince for a loan of $15,000,000 with which to finance his administration of the new State has been agreed to by the powers so that the reason for delaying his assumption of sovereignty has been removed.

When Johnson was charged for the murder of the boy, DeWoody sought a writ to prevent Johnson from leaving the jurisdiction of the court. The writ was denied.

"I never got a dollar from any one except the United States government in connection with the Johnson case," Johnson simply jumped his bond, that's all there was to it.

Charles F. DeWoody, until recently local agent of the Department of Justice, declared that Johnson's charge is "absurd."

Roy Jones, a levee district cafe proprietor and friend of the fighter up to the time he testified against the defendant in the white slave case, said by Johnson to have acted as go-between for Parlin and DeWoody, denied the allegations.

NO TRUE BILLS REPORTED.

that assaulted Meyer is said to have been the main reason a "no true bill" was returned in the case.

Although the Meyer incident is classed so far as the special grand jury is concerned, the body has not completed its investigation of disorders resulting from the copper miners' strike. It will continue in session until Monday.

Indianapolis, Jan. 24.—"I identified positively all three of the men who took part in the attack on the Tanner and myself, and both of us positively identified two of our assailants," said Charles H. Meyer, tonight, when told of the finding of the grand jury at Houghton.

"If Mr. Tanner's positive identification of the men on the grand jury is not sufficient evidence for an indictment, I confess I don't know what a grand jury wants," Mr. Meyer said.

Indianapolis, Ind., Jan. 24.—"I am not at all surprised," said Charles H. Meyer, president of the Western Federation of Miners, when told tonight that the special grand jury at Houghton, Mich., had returned a "no true bill" after its investigation of the alleged kidnapping of Mr. Meyer from the copper strike zone.

"The personnel of the grand jury was the best evidence to us that there will be no indictments returned against any members of the Citizens' Alliance," he said.

SAMPSON MAN PARDONED.

William R. McCullen, Convicted of Second Degree Murder. (Special Star Correspondence.) Raleigh, N. C., Jan. 24.—A pardon was granted today for William R. McCullen, Sampson county, convicted in 1912 of murder in the second degree, and sentenced to two years in jail. He is pardoned on condition that he especially refrain from dealing in intoxicating liquors.

The pardon is recommended by the wife of the man McCullen killed, and by her father, who were the prosecutors in this case; also by counsel for the prosecutors and many citizens. McCullen has served nearly all the sentence, his health has greatly failed and he has rendered valuable service by preventing the escape of desperate prisoners at the risk of his own life. Furthermore, the prisoner has lost all his property. It having been sold under an execution in favor of the prosecutors.

BARBOUR TO RESIGN.

President of Pittsburgh Federal League Club May Withdraw. Pittsburgh, Jan. 24.—President John B. Barbour, of Pittsburgh Federal Club, either has severed his connections with the club, or will do so in a few days, according to well founded reports in baseball circles here tonight. "My business affairs take up so much of my time," Mr. Barbour said tonight, "that I have little time to devote to the club. Besides I feel that in attempting to handle my business and the local club, my health will suffer."

Mr. Barbour would not discuss what action he had taken other than to intimate he will not serve much longer.

IN THE SPORTLIGHT

News and Reviews of the Week in the World of Sports.

And the tables seem to have been turned on the so-called "baseball trust" magnates by the Federalists. Three weeks ago organized baseball issued a "Wilson-to-Huerta" brand of ultimatum, setting forth that the matter of the outlaw league signing their players would be protested in the Federal Courts.

Now then comes the other side, with an "ultimatum" from the high-ups in the Federal organization to President Baker of the Phillies, stating that they will "protect" the contracts of players who have signed with them, and it is intimated by persons close to the promoters of the League that the legality of the reserve clause in the contracts of National and American Leagues will be the point upon which the battle will rage.

As Killifer, right on the heels of this message, signed with the Phillies, after consulting his lawyer on certain points, it looks as if his case will be the first to put it "up to" President Gilmore and his colleagues.

Every lover of baseball must hope to see the courts sustain the validity of the reserve clause, not because their sympathies are with the magnates as against the players, but because it is a notorious fact that without it the stability and perpetuity of baseball will be jeopardized, and because of the other well-established fact that salaries of baseball players steadily have increased in spite of it. If the salaries of the men had declined and onerous conditions established through the instrumentality of the clause in question the American sense of fairness would have revolted and would have manifested itself in no uncertain manner at the box office.

The patrons of the game desire to see the teams representing their respective cities held together and strengthened rather than dissipated every fall. The fans of a certain city come to look upon their teams as an entity and they take pride in it and always are hoping for its betterment. Take the Philadelphia Athletics for instance, (and they are mentioned simply because they are the present world champions.) Every real devotee of the game in America can name every member of the team, the position he plays, and many can give the batting order during the season.

The Athletics have come to be looked upon as an institution and no genuine follower of the greatest game that was ever devised would like to see the system that makes possible this colorful, ruthlessly fought piece. And that is precisely what will happen the moment the reserve clause is decided invalid.

Joe Wood, of the Red Sox, did not have as good a season last year as he had in 1912, but nevertheless "Smoky Joe" ended the campaign with more individual strike-out feats to his credit than any other hurler in the young organization. Walter Johnson, not even excepted. On fifty-four occasions last season American League pitchers fanned nine or more men in games, Wood having six such performances to his credit, Johnson five, Plank four, Falkenberg four, Gregg, Scott and Bedient three each, being the leaders. Had Walter Johnson not been such a wonderful relief artist however, he would have claimed just as many strike-out feats as Wood.

The 1913 strike-out record for a nine-inning game was made by "Death Valley" Jim Scott of the White Sox against the St. Louis Browns on June 22nd. Then fifteen Missourians took the strike-out count, but they won the game nevertheless, the score being two to nothing.

Confident Connie

Connie Jack says he doesn't entertain any fears that any of his stars are going to do a brodie to the Federal League. Connie has evidently seen clear through the problem that vexed Hamlet, Prince of Denmark, in the Shakespearean league. In other words, Connie knows that his athletes feel that it is better to endure the influx of large sums of real coin, which is sure to come, than to take a chance on fabulous sums of press money that may or may not drift their way.

Pipe For The Athlete

The establishment of a third major league will be a pipe for the athlete, whatever his condition of servitude. If the Feds had been as strongly entrenched last spring, how long do you suppose owner Navin would have let Ty Cobb drift about unsigned? When Ed Walsh asked for a certain raise six years after holding the White Sox in the race, do you suppose Comiskey would have refused it, as he did then, if the Feds had been operating with a satchel loaded with bank notes?

Injecting the Fight. From now on organized ball in every division will have to fight. There will be no ruling through any divine right of having got there first. And the new League, by being able to deal directly with the player instead of the club owner, will have the easiest assignment and the shortest trail to success.

The Grand Old Man

Whenever the matter of the most generally respected ball player of the game is brought up, the consensus of opinion generally hands it to Christy Mathewson. And there is no getting away from the fact that Matty is one fine character. Two years ago, if somebody had put up the proposition of the powers that be taking an official stand against player-authors, about the last man to be expected to violate an order would have been Matty. Yet Big Six is practically the only player who continues to allow the use of his name over stuff he never wrote or even read. Also, while the talk of jumping to the Feds is hot, the last man to be considered as a possibility of ever jumping would be Matty. Yet, back in 1909 Sir Christopher agreed to play with the St. Louis Browns of the American League, only to be turned back to the Giants when the peace pact was signed shortly afterward. The average baseball fan also has forgotten that Matty's name was linked with that "plot" to bribe the umpires when the Giants and Cubs met in the famous play-off game in 1908.

President Gilmore of the Federal League has come out with a bold denial of the statement that his outfit is showing partiality in signing National League players in preference to American Leaguers. He says it just so happens that more National League men have been lined up for his circuit that this is not the result of any preconceived plan. It is considered possible also that Ban Johnson, in an effort to quiet a lot of nasty rumors now being circulated, may announce officially that the American League is not pulling for the Federal and that no American Leaguers are interested financially in the new outlaw organization in an attempt to weaken the National and therefore strengthen the prestige of the American.

It is reported that members of the Giants and White Sox have been studying the habits and methods of the kangaroo in Australia of late, so as to have the proper jumping form when the Federal League hangs out a luscious bait to jump for. If the proper amount is placed for a bait we Henry Ford's Remarkable Hybrid Gas and Steam Engine For Electrical Power Plant.

Henry Ford's recently announced plan for dividing $10,000,000 in profits annually among his thousands of employees has aroused widespread interest among the general public. Varying opinions have been expressed as to the wisdom or practicability of this policy, which has been characterized in many quarters as visionary and utopian. Ever since he jotted about Detroit in his first primitive experimental automobile, Ford has been a dreamer who makes his dreams come true, and he is not likely to worry very much over being called visionary at this late date. Indeed, it is exactly this daring quality of imagination which has been responsible for his remarkable success.

Almost at the same time that Mr. Ford announced this unprecedented profit-sharing plan he startled the engineering world in a manner less spectacular, perhaps, but quite as revolutionary from a scientific and mechanical standpoint. He is preparing to spend a million dollars on what will come as close to a perpetual motion machine as the theoretical progress of modern science permits. The perpetual motion inventor has been a standing joke for generations—but here comes Ford with a practical application of at least part of the will-o-the-wisp of mechanics, and what is more he has placed a million dollars worth of contracts to embody his dream in the brick and stone and iron and steel of a gas engine-electric power plant that will be absolutely unique. The power, to be turned into electricity and thus distributed through the great automobile factory covering many acres, will be produced by four big 6,000 horsepower engines which may be best described as a hybrid of gas and steam. Some engineers when they first heard of the plan called it a "mechanical nightmare." Each engine will have four cylinders in tandem on each side, a pair of cylinders being operated by producer gas and the other by steam. The steam will be generated from water heated in the water jacket of the gas engine, further heated by exhaust gases and by waste heat from the producer gas plant. The water or steam will be used as the feed wa-

This description may sound a little technical, but it will be exactly the same in effect as if one took hot water from the radiator of a gasoline motor car, further heated it around the exhaust pipe and with this water or steam operated a steam engine to help out the gas engine cylinders in driving the automobile. This process carried to the limit would be practically a perpetual motion machine inasmuch as all energy wasted in heat and friction would be utilized again and again. Any school boy who has struggled with physics will have vague memories of the law of conservation of energy. No energy is ever really lost and Ford's plan in this remarkable apparatus is to round up as much as possible of the energy wasted by the ordinary engine in the form of heat. The four 6,000 horsepower Hamilton-Gray gas engines of this novel design will drive the same number of 3,750 K. W. 250 volt, 80 revolution, direct current generators having the largest capacities on record for machines of this type. The generators will be finally assembled at the Ford plant in Detroit.

This remarkable power plant, by utilizing the energy usually lost in waste heat is expected to give the Ford factory the cheapest power in the world.

FINDING OF THE COURT.

Officer Guilty of Endangering Battleship Louisiana.

Washington, Jan. 23.—Capt. Harry A. Field, commanding the battleship Louisiana, has been found guilty by a court martial of hazarding his ship by navigation without a chart when the Louisiana grounded on a reef off Vera Cruz, Mexico, last August. He will lose five numbers in grade and be relieved of his command.

Secretary Daniels today made public the findings of the court martial held recently at Norfolk, with the announcement that because four of the seven members of the court had urged leniency, he had modified the sentence by a reduction from ten to five numbers.

Capt. Field's defense was that the battleship chart had been removed without his knowledge. An investigation of this allegation is under way, and involves the trial of a young officer whose name is withheld, on a charge of removing the chart.

The first Italian opera is said to be "Daphne," which dates from about 1594.

Items Concerning Players and Their Achievements.

Miss Alice Joyce.

Perhaps no girl has ever risen so rapidly in popular favor as Miss Alice Joyce, the Kalem star, who is acknowledged to be the most popular actress in motion pictures.

Like so many other famous actresses, it was Miss Joyce's beauty which was directly responsible for her appearance before the public. And to the great delight of the director who chanced across Miss Joyce, he found that coupled with this beauty, was dramatic ability of high order.

About five years ago, one of the Kalem producing directors found himself handicapped for want of a leading woman possessing unusual beauty. He communicated this need to a friend who is a well known photographer. The latter immediately declared that he knew the very girl who could come up to the exacting requirements. He added, however, that the girl in question had no stage experience whatever.

The director requested that the young lady be sent to the Kalem studio. The following morning found Miss Joyce awaiting, somewhat nervously, it must be confessed, the inspection of the director. The latter engaged her the moment she appeared before him.

The motion picture camera is the most exacting of all critics. While makeup will successfully hide facial defects behind the footlights, the motion picture performer finds it of no assistance whatever. The moment the director viewed the completed production in which Miss Joyce had taken part, he knew that he had discovered an actress destined to make her mark in the silent drama. His prediction was verified. Today, Miss Joyce is unquestionably the most talked-of beauty in motion pictures. Her name is known wherever motion pictures are shown. Whether it be in Japan, India or the United States, a murmur of anticipation sweeps over the audience the moment this actress appears upon the screen.

Miss Joyce is an expert horsewoman and swimmer. The public always sees this actress just as she is, a simple, high-minded lovable girl who possesses a wonderful personality. Her success in the silent drama, has not turned her head, and because of her simple, unaffected manner, Miss Joyce is a particular favorite with the feminine patrons of the motion pictures.

who are, as a rule, the most severe critics.

Mothering and Smothering.

Whatever practical knowledge they may apparently display in the pictures, the fact remains that Marguerite Clayton and Reina Valdez, of the Western Essanay Company, are short on the elemental rudiments of the care of infants. But the mother of a rural baby knew nothing of these shortcomings when she asked the two girls to look after her three months' old offspring while she went to the village for supplies. Marguerite and Reina are nothing if not obliging and the trusting mother went forth on her errand. According to time honored precedent and the cussedness of babies in general, no sooner had she disappeared than the infant succumbed to a severe attack of that mysterious malady familiar to most under the name of colic. It yelled, it squirmed, it foamed at the mouth, it contorted its features frightfully, it even went so far as to vomit—for all of which picturesque details we are indebted to the Misses Clayton and Valdez themselves. But if the helpless infant suffered the tortures of its age, the charming actresses were tortured by doubt and overwhelmed with their ignorance. They deplored the miserable little sufferer on the floor and proceeded to try and cure it by "amusing" it. If you ever recall how you felt when you had the colic, you will at once appreciate how much the baby enjoyed the dancing and vocal performance thus staged impromptu by the little Essanay actresses. The child went into convulsions, but not of laughter. Marguerite and Reina continued their performance and the infant continued on its own part with such strenuous vigor that the now distracted Essanay heroines seized a towel with the idea of stopping the flow of both noise and other matter from the baby's mouth. They would undoubtedly have succeeded in effectively smothering the child, had not its shrieks hastened the returning steps of its mother, who rushed in and saved both the baby and the situation. Marguerite and Reina both confess to an abysmal ignorance when it comes to managing babies, but as they are both young and attractive, they do not deny the possibility of a day dawning when they will be in a more favorable position to learn a

SUNDAY MORNING THOUGHTS

By T. W. Chambliss.

Purity of thought develops greatness of mind and of heart.

There is but one road that leads straight home to God. A girl of the same age should be able to make a loaf, bake a pie, make a dress, and mend her own clothing. Lessons taught will not be forgotten.

No one can ever become great except by identification with some great cause.

You may keep warm yourself by the fire you kindle for others.

It is a petty vocation that often finds the weak spot in a strong soul.

Old age has deformities enough of its own; do not add to it the deformity of vice.

There are those who "watch for the morning," and others who continually look for blackness and darkness.

The more love we have in our hearts, the more good we shall be able to see in the world.

Most people would succeed in small things if they were not troubled with great ambitions.

If one is to see the King in his beauty he must be pure in heart; if he must follow Christ he must purify himself even as He is pure.

The man who speaks needs as long a memory as the one who hears. "You said that" throws cold water on hot eloquence.

The life of every man is a diary in which he means to write one story, and writes another; and his humblest hour is when he compares the volume as it is with what he vowed to make it.

"The law of kindness is in her lips," her heart is large and her hand open. She seeks to be useful, and not only seizes on opportunities of doing good, but searches for them.

I wonder why it is we are not all kinder than we are? How much the world needs it! How easily it is done! How infallibly it is remembered! How superabundantly it pays itself back! For there is no debtor in the world so honorable as love.

Sidney Smith recommends us to make at least one person happy every day. "Take ten years, and you will make 3,650 perhaps happy, or brighten a small town by your contribution to the fund of general joy. One who is cheerful is pre-eminently useful."

A good man is happy within himself, and independent of fortune; he has his friends, temperate to his enemy, religiously just, indefatigably laborious, and he discharges all duties with a constancy and congruity of actions.

Some souls are so dowered that they have this grace (of kindness) without any effort and come like sunshine with welcome and cheer to all the world. But even less happily endowed natures can cultivate the disposition and the crop of culture.

It is to be much in communion with God.

Horace Greeley was severe in these words, but those who persevere in speaking over the time allotted to them, might consider this with profit: "If a man has no regard for the time of other men, he should be made to feel it."

What is the difference between taking a man's hour and taking his five dollars?

The picture of my boyhood was that of Atlas holding the world on his shoulders; but the picture for the boy and girl, for the man and woman, for the minister and missionary, is Christ bearing the world upon His heart.

The world with Atlas should be under it; we know it is a myth, but the world with Christ's heart under it is the highest reality of the ages.

Both the church and the world need practical men and women, and the surest plan to grow a crop of these is to teach little boys and girls to do things themselves. A boy at the age of ten should know how to plant and cultivate a patch, to drive a team and milk a cow. A girl of the same age should be able to make a loaf, bake a pie, make a dress, and mend her own clothing. Lessons taught will not be forgotten.

Home cannot be given us. We may be given a house, a place to eat and sleep. That is not a home. A home is a place of home and rest and peace. Love and rest and peace must be deserved, must be earned, before they are realized. Nobody can hand them out to you as so many packages. They are matters of reciprocity. If you have none to give, there will be but little for you to receive.

But prayer is a costly exercise, and this possibly is why so few people dare pray really in earnest. If you pray earnestly a year for China, you will feel you ought to go. If your church prays earnestly a year for China she will double her missionary offering. If at the family altar a father and mother plead earnestly for their children, God will ask a son or daughter of them for far-away service. If we pledge the price we can claim the power.

If people about you are carrying on their business and their households at a pace which drains the life out of you, resolutely take a slower pace; be called a laggard, make less money, lose some respect, but be sure that you are fit to do certain kind of work, and you need a certain kind and amount of fuel and a certain kind of hands.

Prayer is the mightiest power in our hands today. It is not a great sin that we do not use this talent of all talents! What blessings are withheld from ourselves, the church, and missions by not praying! If, like Pastor Grossner, we could learn to pray, we would be able to do more than we are doing. We might have his success—one hundred missionaries put into the field, who gathered thirty thousand converts before his death. He prayed mission stations into being, and missionaries into faith; he prayed open the hearts of the heathen, and led from the most distant lands.

"It is better to weave in the web of life, a bright and golden filling." The words rang with such cheerful decision that the teacher at the school for the blind and I paused before the open door. A young blind girl was reciting to a group of congenial. They were all so cheerful and optimistic, in spite of shadowed lives, that I could not but express my surprise.

"Yes," answered the teacher, "you have there a practical illustration in the weaving of the web; the bright and golden filling is certainly being threaded in my girls."

What sort of a filling are you and I weaving into the web? Dark threads of sin? Many of us grumble and fuss more over trifles than other do over puzzling knots. Each weave has a story to tell, and the threads are often intricate and uncertain; but courage, hope and persistence accomplish much, their possessor is not apt to be that kind that "blames heaven for his misdeeds."

The loom of life is steadily going on and each day's work adds threads to the web that will be unrolled in eternity. See that crop of these in "bright and golden."

MISSIOINARY NEWS.

(From An Exchange.)

In South America there is religious liberty in all of the republics save one, Peru being the solitary exception.

The report of the British and Foreign Bible Society in China showed a circulation of 1,867,000 copies in portions last year, which is 214,000 volumes above the records of 1911.

The Presbyterian hospital at Chai Ryung, Korea, is caring for nearly 15,000 patients a month. The work of the hospital is done by one American physician and two Korean assistants.

Mrs. Laura Edwards writes that the country schools in the Choon Chun district, Korea, are greatly hampered by lack of buildings. What is done in educational lines for that district will be determined entirely by what is made of the country school.

In Guatemala thirty years ago Protestantism began with nothing, not even a Bible. There are now 50 Protestant centers in Guatemala under several societies. Four self-organized congregations are clamoring for the services of a native pastor, who already serves six congregations, preaching all week.

Miss King, fresh from a trip in the Shanghai district, writes: "There are so many open doors and so many hungry hearts among the women of China. There must be more put into our out-station work; not so much money in money, but in strong Christian men to lead the young Christians in to strong Christian faith and to carry the light to these hopeless lives."

Collier's says that it received some time ago the following announcement published in a newspaper in Siam: "The news of the English, we tell the latest. Write in perfectly style and most earliest. Do a murder commit we hear of and tell it. Do a mighty chief die, we publish and in somber borders. Staff and each one been college and write like Kipling and the Dickens. We circle every town and extortion not for a due. Buy it. Buy it." Occasionally these fits into this office a communication which illustrates as clearly as the foregoing the "English as she is wrote."

Dr. A. B. Rudd, superintendent of Baptist missions in Porto Rico, says in a recent report: "In June 1899, our first candidates were baptized—a jailer and his entire household (with no infants). We have just closed our 31st annual association. We have 32 churches, about 2,300 members, 62 Sunday schools, a semi-monthly paper, which is self-sustaining, a theological seminary, for which plans are drawn for a $17,000 building, about $4,500 annual contributions from the churches, and steps are being taken to open, in cooperation with the Cuban Baptists, a mission in Santo Domingo."

If possible, it would be useless to build a Christian on a poor foundation. No other foundation can any man lay, save that which is laid, even Christ our Lord.

INTERNATIONAL SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

(By E. O. SELLERS, Director of Evening Instruction, the Moody Bible Institute, Chicago.)

LESSON FOR FEBRUARY 1
THE UNFRIENDLY NEIGHBOR.

LESSON TEXT—Luke 11:13.
GOLDEN TEXT—"Ask and it shall be given unto you; seek, and ye shall find; knock, and it shall be opened unto you."—Luke 11:9.

The only record we have of this parable is in this gospel. This portion of Scripture is usually thought of as being a great teaching on prayer. It is that, and it is more than that. It is a great illustration of the sound principles of pedagogy employed by that wonderful Bible teacher, our Lord and Savior.

1. Teaching by example (v. 1). There was that in the prayer life of Jesus that was different than that of the formalistic religionists of his day, something that inspired the request, "Lord teach us to pray." His prayer life was different, it was effective. Notice, in passing, the respect of the disciples when he had ceased. If there is one lesson the oncoming generation needs to learn it is that of reverence. His prayers were too sacred to permit of any intrusion. His praying also awoke in their memory the prayer life of John the Baptist. There is deep psychology here. Observation, memory, perception, concept, all in their logical order.

Most Wonderful Prayer.

II. Teaching by formula (vv. 2-4). The human mind is weak and needs that assistance which is to be found in a clear statement of truth. Not always can we have the benefit of a strong personality. Hence Jesus gives us a formula, or prayer, often called the "Lord's Prayer," but more correctly termed "the disciples' prayer." This is in some respects the world's most wonderful prayer, certainly the most familiar. Lacking in personal pronouns, it begins with that matchless conception of God, "our Father," it descends step by step from a consideration of his hallowed name, his kingdom, and his will (Luke 22:42) in heaven and upon earth, down to the question of our need of daily food. It then sweeps backward through the relations of mankind to each other, to temptation, to the power of sin, back to the Alpha and Omega. In it is invocation, supplication and adoration. It sweeps the whole gamut of man's need, physical, mental and spiritual. It begins in heaven, it encircles the earth, it rebounds to those realms of glory from which the Son came, and to which he returned. A study of the prayers of the saints, living and dead, ought to be more emphasized. This kingdom here mentioned is yet to be fully established. A kingdom demands a king (Rev. 22:3); its beginning, though, is in the hearts of men; it implies entire submission to God's will (Luke 22:42); it delights in doing that will (John 6:38, Eph. 6:6); it demands an entire sanctification of our lives, and a desire that his will shall rule in the earth (1 Thess. 4:3). The fifth petition is not the prayer of the unrepentant sinner (John 9:31). Fellowship with God depends upon our willingness to forgive others (Matt. 6:14, 15; Mark 11:25); but that is not the ground of God's forgiveness (Eph. 1:7; 4:32). God does not tempt men (Jas. 1:13); he does permit temptation to assail us, such as modern economic conditions (Mark 1:13, 13), but God never allows us to be tempted above what we can bear (1 Cor. 10:13). Volumes have been written about this prayer and yet its fullness has not even been suggested. The teacher who really prays cannot be a failure, for he has the power of God behind his labor. He must, however, not limit himself to his prayer only (Psalm 4:6; Jas. 5:13, 14). The Christian's prayer must be in the name of Christ, which is not named here, for he was not yet crucified.

The Holy Spirit.

III. Teaching by parable (vv. 6-10). "A parable is an earthly story with a heavenly meaning." Only the teacher who can transmute truth into terms of "it is like" has really begun to teach. Let us beware, however, of a wrong comparison and of too vivid details. This is not a picture of God, only by way of contrast is he suggested. There are three friends here: (1) The needy one in his journey; (2) the needy one who was host; and (3) the needy one who was a selfish neighbor. The parable of the second was inexcusable (Phil. 4:19); the wandering of the first at night time cannot go unchallenged (Matt. 28:20). As for the third, it was a most unreasonable and his friend's insistence was unreasonable, yet, his insistence emphasized the urgency of the request and the confidence of a friend.

IV. Teaching by contrast (vv. 11-13). Pedagogically considered this is the application. Notice it is introduced by the word "for" and the summary is the sum and substance of all good, the Holy Spirit. Jesus contrasts bread, that which preserves life, with a stone, which is dead and lifeless. He contrasts fish, one of the most common meat foods, with a serpent, which signifies deception, and an egg, which is not only nutritious but reproductive as well, with a scorpion, which has in it the sting of death. Each promise is predicated upon a command (Jas. 4:3), ask, seek, knock.

The statement of the Japanese foreign minister to the Tokyo parliament has caused much speculation in Washington as to what was meant by "other means" in connection with the California alien land law dispute.

whole lot more about it in a sound, delightful and practical fashion.

A Futile Chase.
There is a Dago driving colony hard by the Essanay studio at Niles, Cal., and doubtless its existence suggested the story that is soon to be released, entitled "Italian Love." An amusing experience befell Evelyn Selbie during the taking of the exterior pictures out in the fields. The course the story called for was a prolonged and somewhat remarkable run by Miss Selbie made up as a "Dago" down a long stretch of country road between fields. Her sprightly exercise had to be and was, accompanied by a series of alarmed and terror-inspired cries. All this was done to perfection by the actress. But the director, the camera man and Evelyn had overlooked the effect of this behavior on an old bewhiskered Dago who was supposed to be downing his field hand. Hearing the wild, distressful cries and seeing what he believed to be a country woman in distress flying alone, the rose he dropped his plow and tore after the speeding Evelyn as fast as his old legs would carry him. Miss Selbie, though aware of the ludicrousness of the situation, kept on, hoping the "scene" would be completed ere the old chaser got into the picture and spoiled it by uninvited intrusion. The director and the camera man were beside themselves with chagrin, but their hope to get sufficient footage ere the old farmer "broke in" was doomed to disappointment. The pursuer kept on and his chase was duly if most unwillingly recorded. That was the finish. Explanations followed, the Dago tottered muttering and perspiring back to his plow, and the inevitable "re-take" was subsequently made.

A Growsome Incident.

An incident entirely unexpected and not without its humor, occurred at Niles, Cal., where the Western Essanay Co. take most of their exterior pictures. The troupe was proceeding in length and the director of a funeral procession, and the "dead box," as they call it out there, actually contained the body, fortunately living, of V. A. Pote, who was supposed to have been drugged in the story in such fashion that some of the characters believed him to have snuffed off his mortal coil. The procession reached the "grave" in the loneliest spot of the canyon, a second procession met it coming from the opposite direction, and the two funeral parties waited bareheaded in silence. Pote confessed it was a grim experience, but he lay prone in his box, and at his request, this part of the picture making was deferred until next day.

The Longest Film.

Among the most interesting exhibits at the Panama Exposition will be a motion picture that will stand alone as a perfect product of the motion picture manufacturer's art. It is now being shown in the process of production by the American Film Manufacturing Co., already measures several thousand feet in length and is so safe to say, even after being carefully edited, it will in completed form, contain so much interesting material that several days will be necessary for its projection upon a screen.

The production of this unusual picture is being directed from the stage by A. Stollte, Barbara Stollte and well under way, although it will not be released until the opening of the Panama Exposition in 1915.

The film will contain everything of interest pertaining to the State of California that can be photographed by a motion picture camera and promises to be the most provocative feature of its kind that has ever been attempted.

Marguerite Clayton's Admirers.
Marguerite Clayton, the pretty little leading lady with Western Essanay, is just beginning to be flooded with the following from unknown admirers that form the nucleus of success these days in the pictures. One of Marguerite's distant beaux has written her a line which is sufficiently different to justify reproduction:

A child will play with a toy for a throw it away, and call for another; But if I were a child and YOU were a toy, I'd give you me to bring me joy.

And they'd given me YOU to bring me joy. I'd yell like H— till they brought me YOU.

"I hope," this rhymester concludes his letter, "you will not take offense at ONE word of this little verse, but it is the honest truth and I mean it."

The commission appointed at the last session of the General Assembly to investigate the advisability of the State's owning and operating the limestone and phosphate properties in South Carolina, in its report to the General Assembly, recommends that:

"It would not be profitable for the State to undertake to operate at this time the limestone properties belonging to it," and with regard to the limestone deposits makes the suggestion that the State might operate certain plants with unpaid labor.

Congressman Ben Johnson, of Kentucky, and John R. Shields, an attorney, had a first fight in a Congressional committee room Tuesday.

THEATRICAL

The Academy will open up again this week in most glorious manner and will present two of the best attractions on the road, "Macaria," which will prove especially delightful to a Southern audience, and the big musical show, "A Modern Eve," which is one of great size and merit. The former comes to the Academy Tuesday night, to be followed on Thursday, for matinee and night, by the latter. Another swell nearby attraction is "Bought and Paid For," the big Brady show, which is still creating such a sensation.

"Macaria" Tuesday Night.
Sir Henry Drummond said that love was the greatest thing in the world and the human race before and since his day has proven the truth of his words.

Love has made and lost kingdoms. It has discovered unknown lands and changed the map of the world. Love has created, love has destroyed. Love has made some men noble, big and good, and then like the paradox, the puzzle that it is, it has turned and wrecked them. Love is the greatest essential of life, for without love there can be no life. Love brings the roses of the world, while its rival—hate, only ashes and despair.

Love, has many moods and kinds, the greatest of which is love of another, that eager looked-for love that being an exceptional one of favorites with lovers of the "movies." Another star photoplay for tomorrow is "Lubin's 'Between Dances,'" being a splendid society comedy drama, that will appeal with special force to all. It is clever in construction and execution. Then there are two rousing comedies on the big bill. One is Essanay's "Dad's Insanity," and it is a scream for mirth, while the other is "A College Comed." Telling what happens when Hobson, a young college man, has to give the college a laugh and in order to do so advertises for a wife. There will be a big musical program at the Grand tomorrow by the Wurlitzer orchestra.

This week this theatre, for two days, Wednesday and Thursday, will make the most extraordinary and stupendous offering of the season, when "The Last Days of Pompeii," in eight mammoth reels, is presented. Wilmington people can watch their excitement up to a keen edge.

ROBESON COURT THIS WEEK

Judge Rountree to Preside—Church Census Taken—Prof. Allen's School Closed—Notes.

(Special Star Correspondence.)

Lumberton, N. C., Jan. 23.—A two-week term of court will convene here Monday, with Judge George Rountree, of Wilmington, presiding. The docket is not a large one, but contains several important cases, among them being two or three murder cases, one assault and one burglary case. All the defendants are colored, and are in jail. In case the criminal docket is cleared the first week, the time of the second week could be used on the civil docket, but the capital cases will, in all probability, take up the greater part of both weeks. The Recorder's courts of the county dispose of so many of the petty cases that few of them go to the Superior court, and if it were not for the capital cases the criminal courts in Robeson would amount to much.

Prof. Allen's School Closed.

In the Robeson school Wednesday Mr. R. E. L. Prevatt, charged with having a surface closet on his premises in the eastern part of town, was discharged, he having satisfied the others are on the sick list, having been sent in from the chain gang. There seems to be prisoners waiting for court except those to be tried for their lives.

Quite a number of Lumberton people attended the corner-stone laying exercises at Philadelphia high school yesterday and report a most enjoyable occasion. Dr. J. Y. Joyner was the orator of the day. The crowd in attendance was estimated at 1,000. The dinner is said to have been one of the finest ever given in Robeson.

Messrs. White & Gough are going to improve their department store by putting a cement floor in the grocery department.

Success That Wasn't.
Two Lumberton hunters had a very successful day this week, killing 30 quail. But on the trip they got on posted land, were prosecuted, and in the Recorder's court were taxed $11.45 each.

The bird hunters have been finding trouble, and if the fishermen continue to violate the law by using dynamite, nets, etc., they also will catch trouble. There is no law against fishing with hook and line, but that is the limit.

men were indicted for fishing in McMillan's pond, which has been leased and is posted. They paid the costs. A large delegation attended court from Wabash's township. Dennis Wilkins was the plaintiff and W. J. Mercer defendant. The case in court was the result of children of the parties named fighting at school. The prosecutor was taxed with the costs, amounting to between fifteen and twenty dollars.

NEXT ANNUAL REUNION OF CONFEDERATE VETERANS

To be Held at Jacksonville, Fla., on April 29th to May 1st.

(Special Star Correspondence.)
Durham, N. C., January 24.—The following general order No. 51, has just been issued:

Paragraph 1. The next annual reunion of the United Confederate Veterans will be held at Jacksonville, Fla., on the 29th and 30th of April, and the 1st of May, 1914; and the hospitable citizens of that city will do their utmost to make it one of the most pleasant that has yet been held. Free entertainment will be given to all veterans who may desire it, and this free entertainment will not be given in tents, as has been customary at our reunions, but all will be comfortably housed, and every camp will be at hotels, boarding houses, etc. All veterans who may desire any information concerning the reunion, and especially those who may desire to pay their dues before the reunion, should write to Gen. A. D. Williams, 209 West Ashley St., Jacksonville, Fla., who will gladly furnish the desired information.

Paragraph 2. The railroad companies will give, as heretofore, the low rate of one cent a mile to all persons, whether veterans or other visitors, who may attend this reunion. The exact fare from any station can be learned from the local railroad agent.

Paragraph 3. Every camp must pay its dues before the first day of next April to Gen. W. E. Mickle, 821 Common St., New Orleans. According to the rules of our organization, no camp that is in arrears for its dues, is entitled to a vote or voice in the meetings at our annual reunions. It is earnestly hoped that every camp in this division will promptly pay its dues to General Mickle, and that North Carolina will have such a representation at Jacksonville as will be worthy of our good old State and her glorious war record.

Paragraph 4. Miss Wyatt McKinnon, of Red Springs, has accepted the appointment of sponsor for this division at the approaching reunion, and her maids of honor will be announced in due time.

Paragraph 5. The recent death of Comrade S. A. Cunningham, the editor of The Confederate Veteran, at Nashville, Tenn., is a loss that is not only deeply deplored but is almost impossible to replace. Not only was he one of the bravest of the brave who wore the gray, but for more than twenty years past he had rendered valuable service in preserving and perpetuating the heroic deeds of the soldiers of the Confederacy.

By order of Major General J. S. Carr.
Adjutant General and Chief of Staff.

Booneville Man Weds Popular Girl of Kinship.

(Special Star Correspondence.)
Kinship, N. C., January 24.—Miss Lucy Hodges, a popular young woman of this city, surprised local social circles when she became the bride last evening of Thos. Lee Hayes, of Booneville, N. C., without previous announcement. The couple had been engaged for some time, but very few of the bride's acquaintances were informed, and the nuptials were very quiet. Rev. B. P. Smith, a Christian minister, performed the ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of the late E. M. Hodges, a prominent Kinship, and the bridegroom is in the mercantile business. They will reside at Booneville.

The 3,300 Mexican Federals routed from Ojinaga, Mexico, with 1,907 women and 300 children, arrived near Marfa, Texas, Sunday, when they were transferred by train to Fort Bliss at El Paso.

Contract for Paving.
The contract was awarded Monday for paving Chestnut street. In addition to this, First and Second streets will be paved from Chestnut and Third, Fourth and Fifth from Water to Chestnut, the cost to be around $25,000. The work is to begin by February 1st and be completed not later than June 1st.

An interesting marriage was pulled off here one day this week. The groom came here from Elizabeth City, N. C., while the bride, accompanied by her father, came from Blacksburg, S. C., the meeting point having been previously decided upon. Justice Elwood Whaley performed the ceremony.

The advance agent for "Macaria" was here yesterday making arrangements for that attraction to fill its engagement at the opera house next Wednesday night. The play is a war story of the '90s and will doubtless prove very interesting especially to every old soldier, daughter of the Confederacy and all South lovers. Seats will go on sale at McMillan's Monday morning, prices ranging from $1.50 down.

Planting Much Tobacco.
A gentleman who has traveled over a good portion of the lower part of the county during the past few days says he has never before seen so much preparation for planting tobacco, but so far he has been unable to see any indication that would indicate that Lumberton will have a warehouse for the coming season.

The First Baptist church has had a committee at work during the week taking a church census of the town. The work is being done for the benefit of all the churches, to find out who belongs to any church and who does not, and thereby learn where work is most needed.

The ladies of the Methodist church will serve dinner in the commission-ers' room at the court house the first four days of next week. The proceeds will be added to the church fund.

Mr. W. S. Britt has purchased from Mr. E. J. Watts his residence on North Elm street. After installing water works and making other improvements Mr. Britt will offer the house for rent, or will sell it if the proper purchaser desires to buy.

The McDonald Drug Company began last Tuesday morning handling The Morning Star (daily), and already people have learned where to go for the news. Beginning first of the week, their order for papers has already increased. Lumberton people believe in The Morning Star.

Jail Not Crowded.

that both youth and maiden feel, the first faint flutter in their breasts. But standing above even this great type is the love of country—the love for one's own land, the love of freedom, truth and right. Greater love no one hath than to lay down his life for his country."

The two, the highest types of love, are the key-note of "Macaria," which comes to the Academy Tuesday night, seats going on sale tomorrow.

It is a dramatization by Charles Marshall Jelleff of a book by that wonderful novelist of the South, Augusta J. Evans, whose true prototypes of men and women with their undying devotion to those whom they love, are world famous, as well as her tribute to the great love that the Southern women bore their country and their homes, so that they gave their all, husbands, sweethearts, sons and brothers to the field of battle to resist the invasion of the rights of Dixie.

Matinee and Night Thursday.

Pretty safe assurance of the lively and high order of comedy offered in the latest Berlin musical farce, "A Modern Eve," at the Academy Thursday, matinee and night, this week, is contained in the announcement of Mr. Edward Hume in the cast. Mr. Hume has given the stage several happy specimens of his peculiar cleverness in the past half dozen years in prominent support of Rose Melville, Frank Daniels, George Damour and others. His most recent, possibly best remembered success being with Damour in "The Heartbreakers" last season, when he scored a coast to coast individual and positive hit by his humorous originality and eccentric dancing in the part of the chimney sweep.

In "A Modern Eve," Mr. Hume essays the principal comedy role of Casimir Cascadier, a gay enough old boy when his wife's at the club, but a spiritless unimportant masculine, a mere member of his wife's household staff, in that lady's stern and sovereign presence.

The part offers "the comedian splendid, and better opportunities for his old and active methods than anything he has ever done, and the pace he has given the stage several happy specimens of his peculiar cleverness in the past half dozen years in prominent support of Rose Melville, Frank Daniels, George Damour and others. The week at the Grand.
The cozy, handsome Grand will announce its new week tomorrow with a bill featured by five great pictures, and this bunch of what is latest and best in moving pictures, will be headed by a special Viagraph two-reel release, "Heartsease," which tells a well known story, that of a French girl who marries a wealthy Englishman, but in her new home finds herself badly misunderstood. It is a fine story and is well told in the film, the

It is understood that the anti-court house adherents, particularly those residing in and around Chadbourn, have employed an able array of counsel to investigate the advisability of asking for an injunction against the board of county commissioners at the coming term of Superior court.

Great Revival in Trade Reported in All Sections

Industrial Centers of the East, Without Exception, Feel Stimulating Effect of Restored Confidence—Factories Everywhere Running Full Time.

Predictions everywhere of a prosperous year; factories everywhere running full time; industrial centers of the East, without exception, feeling stimulating effect of restored confidence, and a great revival in trade reported in all sections of the country—this is a summary of a symposium of expressions from a list of prominent business men in various lines who were interviewed or questioned by the New York Herald, their views being reported in an article published in that paper a few days ago. The article in full follows:

Find an active business and you find one who is not only optimistic in regard to business conditions in the coming year, but in nearly every case one already personally responding to the demands of a swelling trade and bulging demand for his product. That was the experience of seekers for views of the business world yesterday. Profits in the created manufacturing facilities were reported everywhere. This proves true in New York, Brooklyn, nearby New Jersey, Connecticut and elsewhere.

Owners of great plants in New Jersey turn out textiles, furniture, hardware, machinery of all kinds and articles of luxury report a distinct stimulation in business and a general feeling of confidence and optimism.

Not one voice was heard in declining of any halt in the tide attributable to tariff or banking legislation. Nearly every one was interested in the problem of what would happen when the large proportion of wholesale handlers of standard goods, find it preposterous to abandon the conservative attitude in regard to the size of the stocks they shall carry which has controlled their purchases and stock balances in recent months. Sudden and tremendous pressure on manufacturers is certain to result, according to the general opinion. Many far-sighted manufacturers are preparing to meet the tide of orders damaged up for so many months. Every agency which seeks to distribute and collect news of interest to the business world or any of its special branches is being utilized to advise and warn its clients of what all reports promise, that they may not be taken unaware and may be ready to reap the full share of prosperity foretold by the signals in every part of the country.

Heavy Buying in Hardware.
"All the correspondence of the Hardware Dealer's Magazine with the corporations, firms and individuals in that business give a very hopeful outlook for the hardware business in 1914," Daniel T. Mallett, publisher of that magazine, said yesterday. The letters Mr. Mallett exhibited here in words in full measure and showed that a confident spirit for the future of their trade has been instilled into the hardware men by the conditions and improvement already shown in their business and by the promise of the coming months foreshadowed in their orders and reports.

"Unless unforeseen changes for the worse occur, I believe the year 1914 will be a good business year," is the opinion expressed by Henry R. Towne, president of the Yale & Towne Manufacturing Company, of this city. "In looking forward to 1914, there is nothing to fear," says George H. Jantz, of the American Wringer Company, New York. "The days of national panics are past," comments James Fernley, of Philadelphia, secretary-treasurer of the National Hardware Association. "It may take about three months for commercial interests to adjust themselves to new conditions, but I am willing to venture the prediction that when the books for 1914 are closed the record will be a satisfactory one."

Confidence in the West.
"My slogan for 1914 is confidence," says A. L. Shapleigh, of St. Louis. "There is no reason for any other spirit."

Charles W. Asbury, of the Enterprise Manufacturing Company of Philadelphia, said:

"With such a change for the better in public understanding the year 1914 has prospects so bright as to dazzle the eyes."

"We find that some newspapers refer to New England as the bluest section of the country," said Leon C. Carter, of the Dana Hardware Company, Boston, Mass. "This does not apply to the hardware fraternity. We certainly have no reason for complaint. Jobbers, retailers and consumers are buying with caution, but stocks are so low that the requirements are numerous and frequent. Daily orders are well assorted and so often repeated that it is evident the merchandise is passing rapidly into the hands of consumers."

"We welcome the new year strongly impressed with the belief that 1914 will be a year of increased activities which necessarily will follow a restoration of confidence," says B. C. Shanahan, general manager of the Russell Carpet Sweeper Company, Grand Rapids, Mich.

The sentiment of the hardware trade in regard to prospects for the coming year seems to be optimistic, and we personally are very hopeful," is the statement of Joseph McCaffrey, president of the Hardware Merchants and Manufacturers' Association of Philadelphia. "We see nothing but a very good year for 1914, though some buyers are doing what might be called playing safe."

"We find business conditions in the Northwest on a very sound basis and the outlook for the first six months of 1914 is quite favorable," said F. W. Hurty, St. Paul, Minn.

"Business conditions with us seem to be very healthy," is the statement of Gordon B. Chase, of Greenville, Pa. "Trade is active and the future looks right."

"Business men throughout this section are well satisfied and very optimistic for the future," said M. H. Fowler, Salt Lake City.

"The prospects never were so good as they are now," John Findlater, of San Antonio, Texas, asserted.

Paper Business Thrives.
Robert Blair, Brooklyn, paper manufacturer, said:

"We increased our business about 40 per cent during 1913. The exact percentage of increase is not now available, as our inventories are taken in February of each year, but my assertion is not far from being exact. The tariff has caused manufacturers in various lines to hesitate in their operations. The currency bill caused the holding back of work to some degree while developments were awaited."

Optimism in Leather Trade.
Richard Young, leather manufacturer, No. 36 Spruce street, Manhattan. "The tariff bill has caused manufacturers in various lines to hesitate in their operations. The currency bill caused the holding back of work to some degree while developments were awaited."

"The tariff has been discounted and the currency agitation is subsiding. Both were deterrent influences during 1913. Conditions are now normal and will continue, in my belief, during the present year. I think that business results during 1914 will be favorable and satisfactory."

to see it that the dockets are not congested in any of the counties of the State. He expressed his admiration for the fathers and quoted Montaigne's "Spirit of Laws," that no changes should be made except such as the people demand and for which the times are ripe. But he declared that the time had arrived when the courts should be organized for business; that each annual convention of the judges all such matters as the length of argument of attorneys, how many attorneys should address the jury and all matters pertaining to the admission and rejection of evidence as well as of pleadings and practice, should be discussed, and rules prescribed for the same. He said that there was no appellate court procedure in England and that there had been no new trial granted in that kingdom on account of the admission or exclusion of evidence in a score of years.

He contrasted the inefficiency of the methods of our trial courts with the efficiency of the institutions of modern life. He made an earnest appeal to the bar of the country and to the judges to correct the evil so that our courts would be no more the subjects of popular ridicule and dislike. He appealed for better accommodations for jurors, witnesses and suitors. In line, and it was a plea for the modernization of our courts; paying the judges better salaries; holding them to greater accountability; giving greater consideration to the comfort of jurors and witnesses; making our court rooms smaller and less spectacular, and putting the entire judicial system upon a business, workable, efficient basis. The resignations of judges are coming fast and faster and the official life of a trial judge may be almost counted by months instead of years. The present system is but a rope of sand, inadequate, out of date, a derelict upon the legal high seas. The legal profession must appreciate the fact that the volume of business in the trial courts is now so great that long and prolix cross examinations of witnesses, long speeches by lawyers and long tedious trials damn up the dockets until good people are dogging the jury and a man will give up valuable rights rather than go through the legal mill.

No missionary of any religion is allowed in Russia. Several years ago the czar issued an edict guaranteeing religious freedom, but the necessary laws for its enforcement have never been passed, and are not likely to be soon.

THE INCOME TAX RECOGNIZES FORESTRY

Washington, D. C., January 24.—Foresters and lumbermen see in a decision of the Treasury Department in regard to the administration of the income tax a strong argument for forestry. As they interpret the opinion of the Treasury officials they understand that no timberlands shall be subject to the tax until the timber is cut and marketed and that then the profit only will be subject to an income tax assessment. In other words, all costs will be deducted before the tax is levied, and these will cover the cost of growing the timber, including the cost of planting where necessary and of protecting the growing crop from fire and other depredation.

This decision was based upon a request for information made by P. S. Ridsdale, secretary of the American Forestry Association. He asked if there would be a tax on the value of the yearly growth of timber whether it was cut or not, and also whether an income tax would be assessed on the value of the timberland. In reply, the Treasury Department said that the gain from the cutting and disposal of stumpage is realized in the year during which the timber is cut and disposed of, and that the amount received in excess of the cost of such timber and other depredation should be accounted for as income for that year.

That the statements of several of the representatives of some of the railroads doing business in this State made to the members of the Rate Commission will not be allowed to go unchallenged is evidenced by the announcement of the Western Carolina Lumber & Timber Association that it will send a representative to the Capital City to present the lumbermen's side of the case.

LEGAL REFORMS, GENUINE AND SPURIOUS

Judge R. W. Winston, of Raleigh, addressed the annual convention of the South Carolina Bar Association in Columbia, S. C. He chose as his subject, "Legal Reforms, Genuine and Spurious."

Judge Winston took the advanced ground that there should be a thorough re-organization of the courts of the country; that the delay incident to trials was so great as to amount, in some counties to a positive denial of justice and that the old forms of procedure are, in the language of the American Bar Association, "complex, unreasonable, inadequate and uncertain," and that they should be entirely abolished. That it should be said to the judges, "These are your courts, you are experts in this business. We hold you responsible for the administration of justice. Take charge of it, master and do what is right." In other words, "put it up to" the judges themselves. He declared that this principle and policy had revolutionized the practice in England and in New Jersey. He quoted Mirabeau that "when the people complain the people are always right," and the people are now complaining.

The only permanent remedy for the evil is to put the judges upon such adequate salaries as will make provision against coming old age and pension them when they are too old for work, and then the office would become permanent. He asked the question whether Judge Woods and Judge Connor were more useful at Richmond than at Columbia or Raleigh, or do the United States esteem these eminent jurists more highly than do their native States?

But the keynote of his speech was that the judges should organize and should convene once each year in the capital of each State. That their expenses at such conventions should be paid by the State governments, that the chief justice of each State should be the executive head of the judiciary and should have supervision over all inferior judges and courts and that it should be his business and his duty

A mother's love for her son was graphically depicted in the city court at Greensboro when an aged woman, until recently an inmate of the county home, took the witness stand, and shouldering all blame in the case at the trial, made the court believe that her son, Jim Hendrix, arraigned for retailing, had merely bought liquor for her use. From the contradictory evidence submitted by the old woman the man was unquestionably guilty, and Judge S. M. Pollard gave the defendant to the roads for a term of six months.

As the result of a shooting at Farmville Saturday night, Chief of Police T. H. Smith is dead, and S. M. Pollard, a business man, is in jail, denied bail. Smith entered Pollard's store about 10:30 p.m. and ordered him out. Smith didn't go. Some words were passed and Pollard shot. Smith grappled with Pollard. Pollard fired again. The first shot went into Smith's abdomen, the second through the hand. Smith then collapsed. Smith while being carried out fired over his shoulder at Pollard and missed. He was taken to the hospital in Washington where he died Sunday morning.

A remarkable showing for the Norfolk Southern Railroad was made in the inter-State freight rate hearing before the special commission to pass on the schedule of rates named in the Justice act. General Counsel W. B. Rodman outlined the contention of the company to be that the road being in a constructive stage, it could not possibly afford to apply the reduced rates specified in the act. That if the reduced rates were applied to the business, it would show a net revenue of only two one thousandths of one per cent on the investment of amounting to about $200 per month or $2,400 per year. At the same time the company is paying $85,000 taxes.

THE PRICE SHE PAYS.

There is hardly an American woman nowadays who can keep pace with the demands made upon her time and energy without paying the price of ill health. It may be that dreadful backache, dragging pains, headaches, nervousness or the tortures of a displacement. It is the price she pays. To women in this condition Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound comes as a boon and a blessing. A simple remedy made from roots and herbs which brings glorious health to suffering women. (advertisement.)

Rumors which have been afloat here to the effect that the Waccamaw Lumber Company, of Bolton, had sold out its vast holdings in that section, probably owe their foundation to the sale of several tracts of land by the Waccamaw company to the North Carolina Company, of Chicago, Ill., and the intention of the latter corporation to use the property in an extensive colonization scheme.

That City Council would decline to enter into a contract with the Tidewater Power Company to furnish street lighting for a term of 10 years, even if the company cared to make such a proposition after the matter had been ruled on adversely by the city attorney, was indicated when the matter came up at the regular weekly meeting Wednesday. The resolution calling an election for March 5th to vote on a bond issue for the purpose of financing the purchase of street lighting was passed on its second and final reading, after an unsuccessful attempt by Councilman Loughlin to have the amount reduced from $10,000 to $5,000, and an appropriation of $750 was authorized to cover the expenses of the election. Friday the election was called off.

DELILAH F. BRADLEY
JOEL M. FOSTER

Mobile, Ala., January 22.—Harris E. Bradley, father of Delilah F. Bradley, the 18-year-old Pemberton, (N. J.) stenographer and former Sunday School teacher, who figures as the principal government witness against Joel M. Foster, of Browns Mills, with whom she eloped, states that he will prosecute Foster to the full extent of the law. Mr. Bradley has received telegrams from wealthy residents of Pemberton placing at his disposal ample funds with which to prosecute Foster and urging him not to return without his daughter. Bradley at once engaged lawyers, and they are working up a strong case against Foster. The latter denied emphatically that he had asked his father, T. J. Foster, head of the International Correspondence Schools, for financial assistance.

FOR RICHER CIVILIZATION

Final Programme of North Carolina Conference for Social Service Is Announced.

(Special Star Correspondence.)
Raleigh, N. C., Jan. 24.—The final programme for the North Carolina Conference for Social Service has just been announced. A great three days' conference is planned, beginning Friday morning, February 13th, and concluding with a mass meeting Sunday afternoon in the Raleigh auditorium. This young organization, for which the promoters expected 200 members the first year, already has over 700, and the membership is expected to reach 1,000 before the end of February. The slogan of the conference is "For Human Betterment and a Richer Civilization," and from the looks of the present alignment of speakers the conference will live up to the motto. The programme, as prepared, contains a large number of the best speakers and thinkers in the State, and shows much careful planning on the part of the conference committee.

Regarding the conference, Governor Craig, who is honorary president, says: "I doubt whether any meeting has ever been held in North Carolina with such a comprehensive and constructive programme for the general upbuilding of our State and its people. Every patriotic North Carolinian, and especially every earnest church member, ought to try to attend."

Governor Craig will open the meeting on Friday morning. Following the opening address, there will be a brief review of North Carolina conditions, carefully summed up by such leaders as Hon. J. Y. Joyner, Rev. M. L. Kesler, Dr. W. S. Rankin, Bishop Robert Strange, Clarence Poe, Gilbert Stephenson, W. H. Swift, and others. The Friday afternoon programme deals with the general subject, "Progress in State Building." At this session President Clarence Poe will deliver his address on "The North Carolina of Tomorrow—A Message to Commonwealth Builders." W. J. Shuford, of Hickory, will speak on "Community Survey," Lieutenant Governor Daughtridge, of Rocky Mount, will discuss the needs of our rural people; J. Z. Green, State lecturer of the Farmers' Union, will talk on "Developing Country Neighborhoods"; and Mr. Horace Kephart, author of "Our Southern Highlanders," will speak on the "Development of Our Mountain People."

Following the Friday afternoon session there will be an informal reception to conference members. The evening session will be held on Friday, in order to give the members an opportunity to hear Mrs. Melba and Mr. Kubell, their concert at the Raleigh auditorium.

The programme for Saturday morning takes up many phases of the subjects of health, education and morals. Judge Hastings, of Winston-Salem, will discuss courts and prisons as reform measures. Dr. Joyner will speak on reducing adult illiteracy. Prominent speakers are also scheduled to address the conference on "Our Tuberculosis Problem," "The Gulfport County Public Morals Law," "Women's Clubs in State Building," and other subjects.

The Saturday afternoon session will take up industrial and urban problems and plans for a public awakening. At this meeting, Mr. Swift, of Greensboro, will speak on "Improving Our Industrial Population." Mr. P. W. Connor will address the conference on "Our Cities and Towns: Planning for the Future." Prof. E. K. Graham will deliver an address on "State-wide Civic Service," and Mrs. Anna Steese Richardson, of New York City, National chairman, committee on Child Hygiene of the Congress of Mothers, will talk on "The Mother As A Social Servant."

The general theme for Saturday night will be "The Church Our Supreme Hope in Social Service." Bishop Strange, although unable to attend the meetings, expects to send a message to the conference for this session. Mr. A. W. McAllister, of Greensboro, will deliver an address on "Interdenominational Christian Co-operation."

nominal Christian Co-operation: A North Carolina Example," and Rev. Melton Clark will speak on "Inter-church Association Extension." Other speakers will discuss surveys; church and social service leagues for every town and city in North Carolina; and other subjects.

On Sunday morning the Raleigh pulpit will be occupied by visiting ministers, both from North Carolina and from out of the State. In the afternoon a mass meeting will be held in the Raleigh auditorium. The principal speakers will be Rev. Dr. John A. Rice, of Fort Worth, Texas, and Dr. Shailer Mathews, of Chicago University, president of the Federal Council of the Churches of Christ in America.

A large attendance is expected at this conference, and plans are already being made to secure special railroad rates. Printed programmes and other literature will soon be ready for distribution. Inquiries in regard to the meeting should be addressed to Clarence Poe, President, Raleigh, or to Warren H. Booker, Acting Secretary, Raleigh.

TWO UNUSUAL ACCIDENTS AND A MYSTERY IN GREENE.

(Special Star Correspondence.)
Kinston, N. C., January 24.—Two unusual accidents and a mystery are a day's news harvest in Greene county. A young teacher from Madison county, N. C., has disappeared from Jerusalem school near Snow Hill. Chandler had taught at Jerusalem two months. He fled in the night from his boarding house, leaving behind him a large sum of money, and is believed to have walked to Snow Hill and boarded a train for Kinston. No reason is known for his leaving except that he expressed himself as desiring to go to Kentucky, and intimates think he has gone there. Chandler came to Greene county with H. B. Jarvis, another Western Carolina teacher who recently was discharged from a neighboring school by the committee after he had chastised three pupils who, he alleged, planned to assault him.

Ed Nethercutt, three days a bridegroom, while spinning wood at his father's place in Greene, had an eye destroyed by a flying splinter, which lodged in his left eye. Nethercutt is undergoing treatment in a hospital here.

A small son of Berry Ginn, a Snow Hill man, sustained a painful injury when he had a leg caught in a buggy wheel at his father's home. The boy with other children had clambered upon the buggy of a visitor, and when the latter drove off he fell, his leg becoming entangled in the spokes of a wheel. The limb was almost severed before the horse was stopped and the lad removed from the wheel.

Lenoir County Offices Closed for the Funeral of Babe.
(Special Star Correspondence.)
Kinston, N. C., Jan. 24.—Sad anticipation at the Lenoir county jail here was realized when Dwilla May Heath, the 18-month-old baby of the jailer and his wife and the pet of the officials in the county and city buildings, died. The child had lingered, with a paralytic brain trouble, pronounced incurable for many hours. When the funeral was held yesterday afternoon an unusual thing occurred. Every public office in the county house was closed from 4 until 5, and the officers and many of the citizens who were present at the funeral had been a favorite, rode in the procession to the country graveyard where the funeral was held.

A delegation of Wilmingtonians including J. A. Taylor, R. A. Parsley, M. W. Divine, C. S. Williams, W. H. Spruill and Hugh MacRae, appeared before the rivers and harbors committee in Washington Monday and urged the committee to provide an appropriation for the extension of the inland waterway from Beaufort to the Cape Fear river.

John T. Oliver, the Redville editor who was defeated for the postmastership by Senator Simmons' opposition, has been selected for a field position in the Census Bureau at $1,500 a year, with traveling expenses, when at work out of Washington.

HERE'S AN ECONOMIC PROPELLER THAT'S NOT A SCREW

ply between New York and Albany in 1819 the Atlantic was first crossed by a ship using steam and propelled by paddle wheels. This was the "Savannah." She was 25 days in crossing from Savannah, Ga., to Liverpool. Since her day the paddlewheel has been brought to the very highest state of efficiency and for some purposes is still a dangerous rival of the screw. The screw propeller was first used importantly on the "Great Britain" built of iron and put afloat by the Great Western Company of England. It obtained its practical introduction through the labors of the great engineer, John Ericsson, and it virtually revolutionized steam navigation. This was in 1840. The application of the screw in the propulsion of a vessel which was by no means new at that time. In 1804 Dr. Shorter, an English mechanic, produced motion by its agency. For a long time the success of the paddle wheel turned attention from the screw. In 1832 Mr. B. Woodcroft patented a screw propeller with an increasing pitch, and four years after Mr. F. P. Smith patented a screw making two whole turns, which he reduced in 1839, to one whole turn. In conjunction with Ericsson he greatly increased the efficiency of the screw. In 1838 the British Admiralty, as an experiment, constructed the "Rattler" from the trials which vessel made in these circumstances, the vessel will not move forward at all, although the power given out by the engines remains as before.

The screw propeller has proven of enormous value in the process of the world. Capt. Bouwvel has studied its qualities for many years, the result of his invention of the gyro propeller which, while it does not belittle the devices that have played well their part in the process of evolution, makes a justifiable claim to being the most advanced propeller yet devised.—Norfolk Virginian-Pilot.

Boils Are a Bad Indication

No Time Should be Lost in Purifying Your Blood.

At the first appearance of pimples and boils the blood should be given a good searching internal bath with S. S. S. the greatest blood purifier known to man. This remarkable remedy has the peculiar action of soaking through the intestines directly into the blood, in a few minutes its influence is at work in every artery, vein and tiny capillary. Every membrane, every organ of the body, every emunctory becomes active to cleanse, rid and strain the blood of impurities. The stimulating properties of S. S. S. compel the skin, liver, bowels, kidneys, bladder, to all work to the one end of casting out every irritating, every pain-inflicting atom of poison; it dissolves by irrigation all accumulations in the joints, causes and from the trial, which vessel made in these circumstances, the vessel will not move forward at all, although the power given out by the engines remains as before.

The four brothers of George M. Nicholas, an East Rockingham (Va.) farmer, who was mysteriously poisoned in August, 1912, will attempt to prove his will is a forgery.

THAT TIRED FEELING.

Suggests Grandmother's Remedy. It's true, the season is here with its sudden changes, and the old idea that we need a blood medicine is not without reason. Too much heavy food has caused a torpid liver, sluggish blood, and a weak, tired out feeling.

Sulphur, cream of tartar and molasses was grandmother's remedy but that has long ago been displaced by Vinol, a combination of the two most useful natural tonics, namely, the medicinal curative elements of the cod's liver, without oil, and iron for the blood.

Vinol builds you up, makes you eat more and digest better, makes your blood rich and pure—puts healthy color in your cheeks, and gives you a new strength, no appetite. I took Vinol and was greatly benefited by its use. As I soon felt strong and well as ever."

HERE'S AN ECONOMIC PROPELLER THAT'S NOT A SCREW

Invention Of Captain W. R. Boutwell Proves The Screw Wheel Not To Be The Last Thing In Method Of Propelling Vessels; The Annular Groove Instead Of Helical Form Is Principal Of The "Gyro"

CAPTAIN WILLIAM R. BOUTWELL, INVENTOR OF THE GYRO WHEEL AT HIS DESK IN HIS NORFOLK WORKSHOP

ROOM FULL OF DIFFERENT SIZED GYRO PATTERNS IN ALUMINUM FOR FROM A 2-H.P. CANOE TO A 700-H.P. 50-MILE RACER

THESE TWO PICTURES SHOW THE DIFFERENCE BETWEEN THE GYRO (ABOVE) AND THE SCREW PROPELLER (BELOW). THE ARROWS POINT OUT THE NON-RESISTING CURVED SURFACE OF ONE AND THE TWISTED, VORTEX CAUSING SCREW OF THE OTHER.

THE GYRO

THE SCREW PROPELLER NOW GENERALLY IN USE.

WHEN Elias Howe realized that the eye was in the wrong end of the needle, he encountered a fact that enabled him to revolutionize all industries in which sewing was a factor. The same may be said of Captain W. R. Boutwell, who has qualified as a marine expert in many useful directions. For many years in his capacity as a practical seaman, directing all kinds of craft, he gave thought and study to the propulsion of vessels. Suddenly it dawned upon him that the helical spiral—form was not the last word in the science of propulsion. His mind then evolved an entirely new system, the basic principle of which is embodied in a propeller whose blades are in the form of annular grooves. By this means he got away from the screw principle altogether. The history of the progress of mechanical science is full of such instances of sudden inspiration.

Having visualized the idea, Captain Boutwell proceeded to work it out to its ultimate conclusion and devoted years to the development of a propeller, experiments with and tests of which have amply justified his splendid optimism. He has reason to believe that his labor has fructified and that he has finally evolved one of the fastest and—in most cases—best propellers for vessels yet devised by man. This is no mean accomplishment in view of the fact that the subject lies in the realm of exact science, and thousands of alert minds are constantly focused upon it. Fascinating as the study is to an inventive or mathematical mind, it is difficult for a layman to grasp the radical change in principle involved in Captain Boutwell's discovery. The spiral or screw propeller has been of vast service to mankind. The new Boutwell device substitutes annular grooves for the screw. An annular groove is a ring-like groove or a closed curve, symmetrical with reference to a straight line when rotated about a parallel line. It is difficult to describe in non-technical language. Let us hear Captain Boutwell explain his "wheel."

"My propeller is called 'Gyro,'" said he. "That is, it is a combining form, undulatory and ringlike. It is the only propeller that is of uniform thrust and its efficiency lies in the accurate application of the principle I hit upon. The groove forming the driving face is turned on a lathe, insuring evenness of surface, and avoiding irregularities inherent in the helical type of wheel. The Gyro sustains a uniform containing pressure and has little or no centrifugal discharge, thus possessing pull or push against solid water—if I may use the term—with no loss of duty in overcoming resistance."

"I have demonstrated the correctness of my principle by results obtained during years of practical experiment and development, and scrupulous comparison with the smartest and most popular wheels extant. The tests show the following desiderata for power boats: speed, economy, backing power, minimum vibration, and cavitation, and a wake at high speed smooth and clean as a hound's tooth."

The Gyro is adaptable to infinite models and various conditions. It is suitable for the lean or full lines of heavy hulls, for racing craft of little weight and much power and especially valuable for light draft, twin propellers and tunnel stern use.

"There is little difference in performance—duty value—of leading propellers now in use. They are exploited by reputable manufacturers and each naturally claims superiority. But so slight is the variance among them that the logical course for a power vessel owner seeking improvement, is to drop the old school and try the type based on my newly discovered principle which may fit the case exactly.

"In constructed form Gyro has a distinct advantage over the helical, or old style surface, as the principle remains the same at any angle at which the blades are set; adapting itself to any pitch, while the helical form becomes less efficient when moved from its true generatrix, or motor center."

Captain W. R. Boutwell is president of the Virginia Pilot Association. He is a leading citizen of Norfolk and has done his part in assisting its wholesome development. He was a factor in the successful movement to secure a 25-foot channel from Norfolk to the ocean, now an accomplished fact. He gave valuable advice in the important matter of a plan of national defense at Cape Henry. He has devoted time and thought to the subject of propelling vessels for a couple of decades and made exhaustive practical experiments and tests in all kinds of water and weather before attempting to crystallize his idea into a commercial entity.

Economic Value of the Gyro.

So long that the memory of man runneth not to the contrary, marine engineers have accepted the screw as the fixed form for propulsion. There are about as many varieties of the spiral propeller as there are firms making them; and sometimes one firm has a number of variations; but all are based upon the helical principle. Screw inventors, in a word, have justified their title, they have been developers rather than makers of something new.

Beginning with a conviction that the spiral would not give the maximum of efficiency, Captain Boutwell twenty years ago began to study and experiment. Twelve years ago he evolved the idea of the annular groove concentrically applied with respect to the center of the shaft. To the novice these are nothing but words; but a great principle is contained in them. They mean that the inventor appreciated the great drawback to the screw, the loss of power from centrifugal waste, the lack of directness and uniformity and constancy in the thrust—impossible where the whirling spread of water, especially by twin screws made a solid base for the shove quite unattainable. More study and more experimentation followed, then five years ago Captain Boutwell began assiduously to develop the idea which he had theoretically demonstrated during the interim, with the result that the "Gyro" has come into being fully tested and able to withstand the most rigid investigation.

The distinctive feature of the "Gyro" and its absolute departure from the screw is the construction of its shoving surface which makes a uniform pressure certain and almost entirely prevents discharge from the ends of the blades outward. The "Gyro" begins shoving and keeps right at it, undisturbed by the flow of water from tip ends—a difficulty which is ever present with a fast revolving screw.

The "Gyro" is annular, that is, ringlike. It does not worm its way through the water, heedless of where the discharge goes; its ring-like formation confines, without retarding the fluid with a constant push against it. The thing is so easy, the wonder is that no one had ever thought of it before.

What does the directness and constancy mean in dollars and cents, what do they mean in efficiency? These are the questions most interesting to Americans, be they business men or sportsmen. How much further can a boat go with the same expenditure for fuel or how much more quickly may a vessel be driven?

At first blush the answers to these questions may seem disappointing, but must be remembered that units in percentage make an enormous difference in aggregates where distances are great or speeds are high. The inventor of the "Gyro" knows, and he has the results of experiments to prove, that the saving of fuel will amount to from ten to twenty-five per cent. This saving is effected when a "Gyro" displaces a screw and the same speed is maintained. There is nothing disappointing in that statement—to the contrary it is staggering. Just think of it; from Hampton Roads each year nearly a million tons of coal go to fill bunkers,

But when it comes to speed, there is a different story, the momentum of a vessel does not increase in direct ratio to fuel consumption or power creation, so that, instead of getting from ten to twenty-five per cent. more speed out of the same fuel consumption, the "Gyro" shows an increase varying from three to seven per cent. Let us look at these percentages as gauges of economy or efficiency, let us see what they mean for the coal supply of the world, what they mean for rapidity of intercommunication; for the pleasure of the sportsman.

Take an ordinary tramp vessel, crossing the Atlantic from Hampton Roads to England and burning two hundred or more tons of coal, it can save from twenty to fifty tons; and then think of what can be saved by the mammoth ocean liners whose coal consumption runs into the tens of thousands. Picture if you can a table of all these constituent elements, the various kinds of steam propelled ships and imagine what a great factor the "Gyro" will be in conserving the coal supply of the world.

On the other hand dwell upon the comparatively small increase in speed. At the lowest figure, of acceleration, three per cent, in a race between power boats normally capable of forty miles an hour, the one equipped with a "Gyro" could distance a screw boat, otherwise equal, nearly two and a half miles in a two hours' run and make a race look like a procession. Still more impressive would be a showing on a trans-atlantic run, three per cent additional speed would permit the "Gyro" boat as against a rival boat of equal power and similar lines equipped with a screw to dock while its competitor was hull down below the horizon and would remain beyond vision for a couple of hours or more. Captain Boutwell has not yet attempted to try his invention on an aeroplane, although he is confident that the principle which he has demonstrated for the water is equally applicable to the air. However, up to now, sufficient has been proved for the "Gyro" to warrant the belief that it is one of the really notable inventions of the century, inexpensive in construction, economical in operation and efficient beyond the dreams of those who have hitherto pledged their faith to the helical propeller.

Evolution of the Propulsion of Vessels.

The evolution to date of the propulsion of vessels through the water may be succinctly summed up in the following diagram:

Sail
Oars
Paddlewheel
Screw Propeller
GYRO

The period of the first use of sails of canvas or other material for propelling ships through the water has not been and cannot be determined, but the practice has been in vogue from a very remote period. It is so natural and so obvious a method of propulsion that it must have appealed to the mind of man long before the dawn of civilization. The sail, like the horse, has served its purpose and will in the future be used more for sport or pleasure than for commercial utility.

The transition from sail to oars for the propulsion of craft was gradual. The use of oars may have been suggested to primitive man by the oar-like appendage of animals used for swimming, as a leg or antenna of an insect, or crustacean, such as a crab. The original galleys for sea-going made use of both oars and sails. The earliest ships of all nations were of this class and were at first confined chiefly to coasting, or to navigating narrow seas. The war galleys of the Greeks originally had a single mast carrying one square sail amidships, but depended primarily on its oars. The craft is not yet entirely obsolete, being represented by the feluccas and similar boats on the Mediterranean and nearby seas. Shakespeare tells us that the oars used in propelling Cleopatra's barge were of silver. Oars are greatly valued in emergencies. Those who are familiar with the story of the Mutiny of the Bounty will recall that a vessel was propelled more than 2,000 miles by these implements and it will be a long time ere they shall have outlived their usefulness.

The paddle wheel followed the oar, logically, as a means of propulsion. The earliest attempt to propel a vessel by steam is claimed by Spain's authorities to have been made in Barcelona in 1543. In 1620 Papin proposed to use his piston engine to drive paddle wheels to propel vessels. Very many ingenious methods were devised to propel craft by that means but were neglected until the spring of 1807 when Robert Fulton made steam navigation a practical commercial success with his pioneer paddle wheel steamboat the "Clermont," built to

HOME HEALTH CLUB

By Dr. David H. Reeder, Chicago, Illinois.

Nerves: (Continuation of articles written for Home Health Club by H. Lindlahr, M. D.) How to prepare Vegetables. After the vegetables are thoroughly washed place them in the cooking vessel, adding only enough water to keep them from burning, cover the vessel closely with a lid and let them steam slowly in their own juices. The leafy vegetables (cabbage, spinach, kale, etc.) usually contain enough water for their own steaming.

"Cook all vegetables only as long as is required to make them soft enough for easy mastication. Do not throw away a drop of the water in which vegetables have been cooked. Use whatever is left for the making of soups and sauces.

The organic mineral salts contained in vegetables readily boil out into the water. If the vegetables, as is the usual custom, are boiled in a large quantity of water, then drained off, what is still worse, pressed out, they have lost their nutritive and medicinal value. The mineral salts have vanished in the sink, the remains are insipid and indigestible, and have to be soaked in soup stock and seasoned with strong condiments and spices to make them at all palatable. The natural flavors of the vegetables are the most delicate.

The starchy foods should be thoroughly masticated and mixed with saliva. The drinking water must be of natural temperature, as it comes from well, or hydrant. Food and drink should never be taken hot or icy cold. This foolish habit will, in time, ruin the best of stomachs. Do not eat when over-tired, or emotionally excited. Do not eat the heavy meal of the day between working hours. These are just a few of the most important rules which, if strictly followed, will soon improve the digestion and insure better elimination and freer movements of the bowels.

In many instances, however, even the best combination of food and drink will not overcome indigestion and mal-nutrition, because through long continued abuse the digestive organs have become so diseased and atrophied that they cannot properly digest and assimilate even the best of food materials. In such cases the digestive organs must be made more active and alive by the natural methods of sanitarium treatment, such as hydrotherapy, massage, osteopathy, heat, homeopathic and bio-chemical remedies, and, last but not least, by the right mental and emotional attitude.

Club Notes

I will gladly answer all inquiries for information on health subjects from readers of this publication if same are addressed to Home Health Club, 6029 Cottage Grove Ave., Chicago. Send full name and address with 4 cents postage.

Dear Doctor: I have an attack once or twice a year, usually in early winter or spring. The pains begin two or three hours after eating, and seem to be over the whole stomach and are so sickening that I have no ambition whatever, and I lose from ten to twenty pounds, in weight sometimes. The stomach does not burn or feel sore, but I cannot describe the pain anyway. I have tried starvation, dieting and drugs, but the attack generally continues for from two to three weeks in spite of all. Between times I can digest and enjoy food as well as I need and feel strong and ambitious. My appetite is keen at all times.

I am not yet thirty years of age, five feet, eleven inches tall, and weigh in normal health, from 160 to 170 pounds. I would like to have more flesh as I am rather lanky. Can you suggest a means? Please give such information as you think wise.

I could tell you in three words the cause of your suffering, but if I should stop there neither you nor others would be benefited. Those words would be overeating and constipation. You have, evidently, a strong constitution and naturally good digestion, but you either eat too much at a time, or too often, possibly both. Probably you drink a cup of tea or coffee at each meal. I would suggest that if you drink tea or coffee that you cut it out entirely, also, any other liquids that you may be in the habit of taking with your meals. You should also confine yourself to two meals a day for a month or longer. Take more time for eating and chew your food more thoroughly. Eat about two ounces of almond nuts for dessert after the principal meal and at night before retiring drink two tumblerfuls of sweet milk to which has been added one large cupful of scalding water, and a pinch of salt. Take the juice of one orange or one lemon each morning.

The best hours for the two meals are at 8:30 A. M. and at 4:30 P. M. You will gain in flesh and strength and avoid indigestion and constipation. The Club books will tell you more about constipation and how to overcome it, also how to take flesh and take it off.

Thorough mastication is one of the most important essentials toward overcoming indigestion, and all food should be chewed until it is a liquid in the mouth, nothing drank while eating. By doing so the food will be thoroughly mixed with the saliva, a very valuable digestant, and the food will be partly digested before reaching the stomach, thus relieving that long-suffering organ of much unnecessary work.

Dear Doctor: A friend of mine told me that you have been very successful in cases of enlarged tonsils, without calling upon a surgeon. My little daughter, 8 years old, has had enlarged tonsils for a long time, probably also adenoids. Our doctor wants to operate, but both her mother and myself are both against it. Will you be so kind as to tell me of your methods. I want to try them.

C. L.
The Home Health Club method of treatment in cases of enlarged tonsils and adenoids has been explained in these columns frequently. Space does not allow me to give a detailed explanation now. This the more, as each individual case as a rule, requires individual attention. I have to know of the case, its history and development, in order to be of the best service. Any one so afflicted is at liberty to write for full information which will be cheerfully furnished. I am happy to state that this method has been the means by which a large number of such cases have been saved from the surgeon's knife, which my records fully prove.
